From the moment our parents brought us to the quad freshmen orientation week, we already had preconceived notions about what we expected W&L to be like. To an extent, some of these notions proved true. W&L is built on tradition, and some things will never change. This is exactly what binds us together as a community and makes W&L a unique and special institution at which to spend four years. Some aspects of these four years, however, are bound not to go as planned. Whether you change majors multiple times, ending up in a different greek organization than the one you anticipated, or have an unexpected change in summer plans, there is no way to truly anticipate as a freshman what your college experience will have in store for you. It is cliche but true - we must live for the moment, because the moment is all we have. It is the goal of the 2006 Calyx to Capture the Moments that make the W&L experience unique and memorable. Enjoy.

"Who can say what has gone into the creation of this place that makes us love it compounded in the beauty of the Colonnade under snow on a moonlit night, of sunsets behind House Mountain, of the Honor system, of great teachers and their courses, of long hours in the library boning up for exams, of Fancy Dress, of victories on Wilson Field, of going down the road, and pride in our academic vigor."

Dedication

By nomination and vote of the graduating members of the Class of 2006, this book is hereby dedicated to:

The Honor System

The Honor System is one aspect of this university that is truly unique. While many universities boast honor systems W&L's is a way of life, rather than a set of rules. The entirely student run system not only ensures that students wil not lie, cheat, or steal, it also discourages any behavior that could be considered dishonorable. From the famou freshman orientation honor speech to life as an alum, the honor system makes us proud to be W&L students.

Dining Hall, GHQ, and Co-op

The Class of 2006 has been privileged to dine in many on-campus establishments during the course of their colleg careers, and it is certain that the original institutions are the ones most cherished. The Class of '06 was the last in long line of students to dine in the establishments that have been the setting for student dining for decades. The began their dining experience as freshmen in Evans Hall, popularly nicknamed the 'D-hall,' and nothing could tak its place, not even the newness of the commons and the fancy Marketplace. Even though the thought of chicke cordon bleu will forever haunt the Class of 2006, thoughts of the d-hall will always bring fond memories of freshmen year bonding. The GHQ and old co-op were also popular hangouts, providing students with the opportunit to escape the monotony of the d-hall for a quick meal or to meet their friends in crowded booths to grab a snack Although the new co-op (Cafe '77) is bigger, features more variety, and has more seating, nothing can replace th memories every member of the Class of '06 has in the original. This dedication proves what an influence these ol dining establishments had on the W&L experience of the Class of '06, as they marked the transition from old traditions to new.

President's Message

The class of 2006 will always have a special place in my memories of Washington and Lee. First, I had the privilege of teaching and advising many of you. I have observed your inquiring minds and your intellectual growth. And then, as Acting President, I became acquainted with many more of you and with additional aspects of your lives. I have admired your skills on the athletic fields, worked with you as campus leaders, and talked with you informally at Lee House dinners.

It may seem that you have lived through great changes at Washington and Lee. You did know student life without and with the Elrod Commons and live through a furious debate about our academic calendar. But your entire lives have been characterized by even more dramatic change. After all, you were born at about the same time that the Macintosh computer arrived on the scene. You are the first W&L class to complete your entire college education in the post-9/11 world. You have embraced many changes and adjusted to others.

Still, you don't allow valuable traditions to fade away. Because of you, Washington and Lee will always have a Co-op snack bar. More important, you have sustained the honor and speaking traditions, and you have flourished in small classes under the intense scrutiny of teaching-oriented faculty. You have celebrated coeducation and expanded service to the community. You have helped to maintain and strengthen what is special about Washington and Lee.

We are indebted to you, but you are also indebted to many persons who have granted you the gift of an excellent education: parents, benefactors, teachers, and staff members who maintain the safety and the beauty of our campus and prepare and serve the food we eat. You can remit this debt by serving society in your work and civic contributions and by helping Washington and Lee educate your successors here.

We look forward to taking pride in your many achievements. Remember us and come back to see us from time to time.

Campus Life

While our main purpose in coming to W&L is to gain the credits required for a degree, it is the relationships we develop over our years here that make the experience memorable. Whether it's meeting new friends over orientation week, bonding over ridiculous and creative Halloween costumes, or enjoying a Parents Weekend unlike any other university, the social aspects of W&L are one thing that makes it incredibly unique. Often students chose to expand their experience off the boundaries of this campus, and spend a term studying abroad. Spring Term, Alumni Weekend, and Homecoming were other functions that allowed us to celebrate and strengthen friendships formed with the aid of this unique institution. The 'Work hard, play hard' motto helped us make the most of our four years.

Orientation Week

Washington and Lee orientation-week: the cherished six days of college without classes. Sunshine welcomed freshmen and their parents as they moved into their dorms on first day of orientation, September 3, 2005. Cursed by tradition, summer rain must now appropriately see them out as they graduate in June of 2009. Over 150 freshmen embarked upon the day of unpacking with friends already in tow, having spent time with classmates rock-climbing, volunteering, or backpacking on one of the university's many Leading Edge or Volunteer Venture pre-orientation trips the week prior. Dressed in their Virginia best, the Class of '09 spent the next several days filing in and out of Lee Chapel to attend welcome speeches and discussions of the honor code, while upperclassmen generally embraced their short schedule free existence. Sunning, room décor, Wal-Mart runs, country parties, and post-summer catch-ups with friends occupied their time. Unfortunately, it was the sunshine not the freedom that would last well into early fall. On Thursday the 8th it was off to class.

Homecoming

On Saturday, September 23rd, current students and alumni guests alike crowded the sidelines of Wilson Field to cheer on the Generals who faced off, in their third football game of the year, against the Centre College Colonels. Although the scoreboard favored Centre 26 – 35 at game's end, there were two other winners on the field that day: Chi Psi's Juan Estrada '06 and Chi Psi's nominee Jess Good '06, who were crowned Homecoming King and Queen. True to tradition, an evening of band parties and cocktailing followed, enjoyed by young and old alike, all excited by the same timeless W&L spirit. Yet, the weekend's festivities celebrated change as well. Homecoming 2005 marked the kickoff a yearlong celebration of women on campus in honor of the 20th anniversary of coeducation. The inductees to the athletic hall of fame were also celebrated over the weekend, and a special alumni baseball game was held. The weekend provided time for further reflection on the university's ever evolving legacy, with special events for both Five Star Generals (alumni who graduated more than 50 years ago) and the Young Alumni (members of the four most recent classes).

There is definitely one thing Washington and Lee students do well - play dress-up. Veteran theme partygoers were once again able to put their years of experience on display at the annual Windfall Hill Halloween party this October. Students spent the days before shuttling between Wal-Mart and the Hill, attending class while planning and executing their outfits in-between. In true W&L spirit, costumes were worn by not only freshmen, but every grade - boys and girls alike. Goodwill, Totally Party, and the ever handy Wal-Mart fabric department provided the raw materials. Student creativity provided the inspiration. Black ca gangs, beauty queens lifeguards, police "wom en" and virtual sorority armies - all were in atten dance. W&L gentlema transformed themselves into pro-wrestlers, ninjas and even the Amend ments to the Constitu tion. A day consumed by serious costuming ended with hundreds of dressed-up students dancing under a white tent in the country.

PARENTS WEEKEND

"TO BRING UP A CHILD IN THE WAY HE SHOULD GO, TRAVEL THERE ONCE IN A WHILE."~JOSH BILLINGS

Senior Cameron Wick with his parents

Students and parents spent the last weekend in October together - enjoying town and campus by day and fraternity row by night. Band parties kept students and their families dancing well into the night. The University's own Chorus and Chamber Singers entertained with a performance in Lee Chapel Friday evening and acapella groups kept the music going Saturday night. Sorority row was open for walking tours during the afternoons and parents were even able to sit in on classes with their children before attending department open houses. Saturday's football game drew a crowd of studen and family; all gathere at Wilson field to che on the Generals again the Bridgewater Eagle Despite a narrow 13-1 loss, the atmosphere ar excitement made fo a great afternoon. F parents, friends, and si lings, the weekend wa a chance for first intr ductions and yearly r unions alike. Whatev the activity, the greate enjoyment came fro simply enjoying or anothers company.

Christmas Weekend

> It is Christmas in the heart that puts Christmas in the air.
> ~W.T. Ellis

Frat row is all a glow. Girls scramble to find cocktail dresses and dates. Fraternities graciously serve egg-nog instead of kegs. The Sheridan Livery is the place for dinner and dancing instead of a sweaty fraternity basement. Bad Christmas sweaters abound. It's Washington and Lee Christmas Weekend. Sigma Chi's midweek kickoff event, Christmas in the Country, signaled the start of Christmas Weekend, which culminated in two nights of cocktail and band parties. While it wasn't a white Christmas, the decorations and holiday spirits made for a festive atmosphere. Whether you spent your time riding pine trees down stairs at Kappa Sig or hitching a ride to Harrisonburg to dance alongside a Phi Kap, everyone reveled in the holiday spirit during the last party weekend before finals.

SARAH PRESENTS...

LIP SYNCH

The purpose of the 20th annual W&L Lip Sync was the same as in years past - public freshman humiliation for a worthy cause. '09ers danced for dollars in front of a panel of judges to benefit SARAH (Students Against Rockbridge Area Hunger). Sororities could pay to enter up to three acts, fraternities just one. The event occurred in January, and provided a fun activity for newly formed pledge classes to bond. The week prior to the event was filled with practices and costume preparation. There were mock Kanyes and Beyonces and Aretha Franklins but first place went to the Phi Psi pledge class for their rendition of Michael Jackson's Thriller vide Not all acts were as fo tunate. The judges' gon signaled the end of th dream for several group of impersonators. Th judging panel was com posed of both student and faculty, and wa designed to incorpora different perspective The judges rewarde MSA with second plac while third went to Thet (past winners from 2005 The event was a success providing money fo SARAH and entertainment for the crowd.

Two of the hosts, Senior Pierce Owings and junior Chris Lalli, do a little shmoozing with the audience before announcing the next act.

THE HIGHLIGHTS OF LIP SYNC

- Freshmen Pikas began the night with a steamy rendition of U + Me = Calculus.

Fancy Dress 2006 kicked off on Saturday March, 4th. Rachel Turner and Niki Tsiknakis worked hard with their committee to relive Steve Rubell's dream of throwing "The best damn party the world has ever seen," 54. This year, Rachel and Niki welcomed the Lexington community into the Doremus Gym which was transformed into the famous New York City club that emerged in the late 1970's disco era. The gym welcomed visitors into the night life with a lighted dance floor, New York City skyline, and club lounge. The decorations even included a huge man in the moon much like the decor of the actual club.

Senior Will Kahn, junior Niki Tsiknakis, and senior Rachel Turner.

Although the real Studio 54 didn't survive very long, it is said that "there never was anything like it before and there will never be anything like it again." The transformed CBS television studio was often visited by stars such as Andy Warhol, Dian Rodd, Cher, and Liz Minelli. The hard work Steve Rubell and Ian Sh rager made this nightclu an instant hotspot. Studi 54 was the hottest disc in New York and peopl from all over the glob came to indulge themselves in the decaden lifestyle of Studio 54.

Fancy Dress 2006 provided an environmen much like that of th famous NYC club an brought in guests from a over the Lexington community. "Welcome to th party. You've never bee anywhere until you'v been here," 54.

Spring Term

"Spring is nature's way of saying,
'Let's party!'"~ Robin Williams

Ahhhh...Spring Term. W&L students spend the last six weeks of school taking only two classes, leaving them with a lot of free time. Weekend road trips to Foxfields, Virginia Beach, and even NASCAR events are not uncommon.

But there is still a lot to do at school. Fraternity and sorority formals take charge of the nightlife during Spring Term. Day-long tubing trips down the Maury River are something that every one should partake in before they graduate. Students can participate in a variety of activities, such as Derby Days and the Buffalo Creek Music Festival. This spring also marked the start of a new tradition in the performing arts. With the help of a new endowment by Robert and Elizabeth Bentley, actors and singers will have the opportunity to perform in a musical every spring term. Or students can support their fellow classmates on sports teams, who dominated once again this spring with four ODAC championships.

Spring Term is just a great way for everyone to relax after a year of hard work, and a great way for seniors to say good-bye to Washington and Lee.

Alumni Weekend means seeing old faces and making new friends. Spirited graduates proudly return to show their appreciation for their alma mater and act like they never left. Current Washington and Lee students get to catch up with their old classmates, who tell what it is like to be in the "real world." Fraternity cocktail parties, band parties, the Colonnade banquet and lots of visiting alumni are a recipe for one of the craziest weekends of the year. Seniors have a special opportunity to be part of Alumni Weekend, with the Alumni/Senior Banquet held on the front lawn each Alumn Weekend. This banque gives seniors a taste o what it will be like t be alums of W&L, and reminds them of thei looming graduation The weekend provide numerous opportunitie for socializing, and gav alums the chance to re connect with their W&l experience, and allowed current W&L students t realize how special thei alma mater is.

Service

W&L students pursue philanthropic aims by getting involved with the Lexington community

A complete W&L education is not possible by simply going to classes and collecting the credits needed for graduation. Those students who make the most of their four years in Lexington are those who expand their horizons beyond the confines of campus, often by participating in service projects.

Many students chose to get involved with service activities as soon as they stepped onto campus as freshmen by participating in a preorientation trip that focused on providing a week of service in an underprivileged area.

Others looked for a more long term commitment and got involved with organizations such as the Nabors service league, which matched students up with volunteer opportunities based on their interests.

This year two new service organizations made their presence known on campus: Up Til Dawn, an organization that raises money to fight childhood cancer, and the Campus Kitchens Project, which uses unused campus food and facilities to provide meals and jobs for local residents. These opportunities provided even more ways for students to get involved serving their local community.

During the fall, winter, and spring semesters our fellow classmates left the W&L campus to explore other parts of the world. Students this year traveled to places like France, Australia, Scotland, Brazil, Hawaii, Africa, and even China. Fighting through jet-lag and language barriers, these students learned about different cultures and made friends from all over the globe. Kristen Chasse, a junior archaeology and anthropology major from Maine, spent her winter semester in Cyprus. She said, "going abroad really was the best experience of my life, especially living with a host family. It was such a life changing semester for me. Everyone should go abroad if they get the chance." Some had such a good time they didn't want to come back the United States. Junior Kelly Evans, a business

Baccalaureate

Traditional ceremony allowed for reflection, preparation for graduation

W&L's unique traditions give seniors the opportunity to be properly honored and leave in style. The ceremonies begin the day before graduation with the traditional Baccalaureate service. The service was led by William C. "Burr" Datz, director of leadership development and acting university chaplain. The keynote speaker was professor emeritus Lamar Cecil. Cecil taught European History at W&L from 1982-2000.

All of the graduates were required to attend the ceremony, which began with a faculty processional followed by the processional of the Class of 2006. The ceremony featured music by Brass 5, as well as members of the University Choruses singing Shenandoah and the W&L Hymn. Graduating seniors were invited to the stage to sing Shenandoah.

The service gave graduates the opportunity to reflect on the events that got them to this place, and gave them time to prepare before they received their diplomas and looked to the future on graduation day.

Graduation

W&L Celebrates its
219th Undergraduate Commencement

Sunny skies and hot temperatures greeted the Class of 2006 as they processed onto the front lawn in celebration of W&L's 219th Undergraduate Commencement. This years class had many accomplishment, and much to celebrate. They achieved the highest cumulative GPA on record at W&L, with a 3.33. Also a historic first, the class was the first to graduate with more men than women. 50.5 percent of the class was women, and 49.5 percent men. This milestone was especially appropriate in a year where the undergraduate campus was celebrating 20 years of coeducation.

The Commencement speakers included Executive Committee President Charlie Yates, and Acting President of the University, Harlan Beckley. Beckley urged the graduates to view their W&L education as a gift, and to seek to use their lives and careers to 'repay' the gift they had been given, both in financial and non financial terms.

Honorary degrees were conferred upon Joella Mitchell Morris, Stewart Morris, and Beverly Daniel Tatum.

① Free at last

Freshmen

Whether they were an early decision legacy or a student who applied to W&L on a whim and decided to go, all freshmen of the class of 2009 faced unfamiliar territory when they arrived in the BDG quad for orientation week. Despite varying backgrounds, interests, and even nationalities, freshmen quickly began to bond over the traditional orientation week activities, such as the Honor System speech in Lee Chapel and the first dinner with their major advisors. Throughout the course of the year, freshmen were exposed to the many things that make the W&L experience special, such as Homecoming, Parents Weekend, Christmas Weekend, Recruitment, Fancy Dress, and Spring Term. As the Class of 2009 enjoyed these 'firsts' of their college careers, their experiences allowed them to look forward to the remainder of their time at W&L.

Sophomores

Although the year is often labeled the 'sophomore slump,' sophomores on campus worked to stay involved and take advantage of the opportunities W&L has to offer. Students were still required to live on campus, but this year they had the luxury of choosing their own accommodations. Some chose to live in apartment style housing with a small, close group of friends in Gaines or Woods Creek. Others chose to fully embrace the greek lifestyle and live with their pledge classes in a fraternity or sorority house. Sophomore year also gave greek students their first opportunity to experience rush from the 'other side.' Academically, the year provided a balance between working on general education requirements and beginning to take courses toward a major. Although sophomores were required to declare their major by the end of the year, it remained common for students to switch several times in pursuit of the best course of study. These opportunities allowed sophomores to enjoy and make the most of the year before they approached their upperclassmen years and were forced to think more seriously about their futures.

Juniors

Junior year provided students with an opportunity to enjoy W&L to the fullest. Finally able to reside in off campus housing, juniors savored the opportunity to assert even more independence. Well into the courses for their majors, juniors had the chance to study things they enjoyed, without worrying about the real world pressures of finding a job or applying to graduate school. Often students used part of the year to study abroad and gain new perspectives. Others sought to stay on campus and get involved with clubs or find internships that would help them develop their interests. Friendships were strengthened and new bonds were made, all in eager anticipation of when they would finally be seniors.

Seniors

Senior year: a time when you begin to realize just how quickly four years can pass. Throughout the year seniors kept busy with a variety of activities that made the year fly by. Their schedules were filled with job interviews, grad school visits, and countless trips to Career Services in an attempt to figure out what life would have in store for them after they left Lexington. Social obligations filled just as much of seniors time, as they realized the bonds formed over contact with close friends for the past four years would soon be tested by distance and separation. Despite the hectic nature of the year, these experiences gave seniors the opportunity to begin to reflect and appreciate the uniqueness of the institution they are blessed to called their alma mater.

our years at W&L go by fast, but when you look back pon the people, experiences, and special moments, eshman year seems like much more than four years go. The four years I have spent learning in and out of e classroom have been an opportunity that I am glad took. A lot still lies ahead of me, and to quote Ralph aldo Emerson, "What lies behind you and what lies in ont of you, pales in comparison to what lies inside of ou," and I know that W&L will always be a part of me. nowing that I will always be able to draw upon that is omething I will forever be thankful and proud of."

"Four years ago, I distinctly remember moving into my oddly-shaped dorm room, my first college party, my many all-nighters the awfully-decorated torture chamber that is Leyburn, and my odd assortment of encounters with peers. Among my memories this University, the people have meant the most. I'm proud to say that I have the most wonderfully random collection of friends ar acquaintances on this campus... I have best friends from Texas, Delaware, India/Australia/Chicago, the Carolinas, Wisconsin/Franc Maryland, Virginia, New Jersey, and Mexico.

Thanks to the broad range of people I know, I think I had a typical and a very atypical W&L experience all at the same time. Ye I donned the preppy clothes, joined a sorority, and became Panhel president; I was social – too much so on some nights! On the oth (atypical) hand, I'm a proud 'yankee,' took Women's Studies classes, 'came out' as a feminist, and joined some less-mainstream grou – KEWL, GSA, MSA, ResLife.

Ultimately, this school kicked my ass and I have the GPA to prove it. But I've loved it and will desperately miss so many of th delightfully insane people here; they've enhanced my W&L experience and taught me so much. If I can pass on a few things I' learned, these are the most important ones: 1) Talk to everyone, particularly the crazy-looking people. 2) Life is short, so push yo limits and leave your comfort zone. 3) Be evocative, and do more than just take up space. 4) Trust your instincts and don't be afra to make mistakes. 5) Live, love, laugh, and learn from what others have to teach you."

"As we entered Lee Chapel in the Fall of 2002, we entered 470 individuals. We came from different backgrounds and fferent parts of the world, yet we all came to become a part W&L history. President Burish discussed our accolades and emember feeling intimidated by the 55 valedictorians, 49 udent body presidents—the new faces that sat among us. owever, over the past four years we have grown together. ot automatically, but through some combination of living gether in the dorms, sororities and fraternities, the Co-op (old id new), date functions, Mock Con, the GHQ, sports teams, oup projects, parties, classes, fighting for Spring Term, and any hours spent in the Old D-hall.

We have grown from the 470 individuals that entered Lee hapel four years ago into one unified Class of 2006. So in the mortal words of Dr. Seuss, to the Class of 2006: 'You're off Great Places! Today is your day! Your mountain is waiting, get on your way!' Thank you Class of 2006 for an amazing ur years full of wonderful memories—good luck and keep touch!!"

“Looking back, it seemed to pass in a blur. The first days were exhilarating! So many people to meet; so many friends make…skipping Orientation meetings to hang out in our newly furnished dorm rooms…waiting in the quad and pack- ng into cars heading to that night's party. At that point, I wasn't sure what this place was going to mean to me. But, I did now one thing…I was having fun.

Four years later, things haven't changed that much. Everyday, I'm still learning more and more what this place means me. The professors. Individuals who actually care and take the time to remember my name, where I'm from, and what m interested in. The activities. Staying up 'til three, working on decorations and final preparations for Fancy Dress. Or aking up at noon, throwing on our sundresses, and making our way to the football field. The parties. Standing around a re, enjoying chatting about absolutely nothing. Or, dancing…dancing all night long. My friends. The people I've spent untless hours with and who have become so much a part of who I am. The people I can't imagine leaving and the people feel honored to know.

So really, things haven't changed that much. Today, I'm still not sure exactly what this place will come to mean to me. ut, I do know one thing for sure…it was fun.”

"David Bowie once said, '...and these children that you spit n, as they try to change their worlds are immune to your conultations. They're quite aware of what they're going through...' Jere at Washington and Lee we are quite aware of what we're oing through. We're aware of the parties during the week, of e Co-op meal deals, and the Chi Psi Late Nites. But we can ever forget that we are a class of many firsts. We're the first lass to come in with Burish, the first class to have a website irl, and the first class to dominate this campus. But we must emember we are also a class of many lasts. The last class to at in the old d-hall, to hang out in the old Co-op, and the last lass who truly appreciated what pledgeship was really like. ly four years here have been incredible. I would like to thank y fraternity Chi Psi, especially my pledge class. I would like thank all of my friends—a lot have graduated and some will ay here when I leave. You all know who you are. I'll miss this lace, but I'll never forget it. And always remember don't hate e because I'm gay, hate me because I stole your man!! Love, le."

"Washington and Lee is special to its students for reas no one could understand unless they have attended it. It is r because we are a top 20 liberal arts college, nor is it because like to party. Lots of schools have those qualities. Instead, it the relationships we develop and the traditions we keep that us apart. We fight for every little unique thing about our sch convinced that Washington Hall will fall down if we do not. O professors care about us as people as well as students, and ha us to their houses for dinner. We are ambitious, but that does mean that we are unwilling to lend a helping hand to a struggli classmate. There is something magical about Washington a Lee that words cannot capture, but that we understand becau of our collective experiences as students. When you come he you become a part of something bigger than yourself, a netw of fellow fanatics that is fabulous for those who are part of and sometimes infuriating for those who are not. In spite of, a maybe because of, that quirkiness, I cannot imagine having sp my last four years anywhere else."

ever. Still, these are individual memories, and perhaps not important as those we have shared together—many which will never be experienced again. We, as a class no doubt have fond memories of the co-op (not Cafe 77), t D-Hall (not the Marketplace), midnight breakfasts at 12:00am (not 10:00pm), and a W&L where the students were n treated like small children in need of guidance (life before the Commons). Our class can be proud that we did o part to save Spring Term, to protect the Greek system, and to keep W&L the same as it was when it convinced us was where we belonged... and oh yeah, that we lasted longer than Burish did. All the parties and all the booze asi these are some of my fondest memories of W&L, and for better or worse we have shared them together. Cheers a good luck, seniors."

"My grandfather once jokingly passed on a bit of fam wisdom: "Never marry a girl for her money, just hang with rich women so you fall in love with one." So I figur I'd go to Washington and Lee, where I learned all abo debutantes, Ugg boots, and all sorts of nonsense. W&L probably an easy place to criticize, everyone looks, dress and thinks the same, it's elitist, etc. I don't buy it. Su it's a small, tight-knit school with a dominating social stru ture, but people operating within this framework are n slaves to it. There is a wealth of interesting, intelligent, a friendly individuals here, open to new ideas and differe types of people. These people have been critical my p sonal growth, and I am forever indebted to them. The people have been fun. Lexington is a great town."

"I never thought that it would be hard to write a senior moir, I've discovered that it's one of hardest things that I've er done. It just makes me realize that my time here at Washgton and Lee is at an end. Kids that never had the chance to et me will be reading this next year wondering—maybe—o I am. I had to think about what to put in here that really ls about my time here. So I have to say that even though e enjoyed it, I'm glad it's almost over! These have been the st challenging four years of my life…but they've also been ur of the best. Washington and Lee has truly been like run-ng the gauntlet, but I've truly become stronger from my time re. From the struggle of figuring out how to let my guard wn enough to make new friends, to which classes to take so at I could graduate on time after I changed my major three nes. I've made a group of friends that I know I can trust, d developed relationships with faculty and administration at I can count on all through my life. Washington and Lee s been good to me and I wouldn't trade this experience for ything."

"A sense of community. If I could sum up my entire W&L experience in one phrase, that would certainly be it. It's those things that we share as a class--meals in the REAL dhall, study breaks in the REAL coop, lunches in the GHQ--and those that we share with the entire campus community--the Speaking Tradition, the Greek System, and, of course, the Honor System--which have all fuelled this sense of who we are as an institution and as a student body that I believe each of us will cherish as we depart the 'shadows of white columns' on June 1. Best of luck to everyone."

Lyndsay Polloway

"Some people quote Shakespeare, but I'm going to go out on a limb and quote Mick Jagger: 'You can't always get what you want, but if you try sometimes you might find you get what you need.' I wanted to go to a huge college in a huge city...and I ended up in a fishbowl in a mountain town. I'm an impulsive person, and I applied early decision the night after I went to a W&L info session in Houston. I thought I might regret it—but now, I wouldn't take it back. I went to a high school with a class of over 950 students. I couldn't tell you half of their names when they walked across the graduation stage. But now, as graduation approaches, I love the fact that I will at least know of every person who walks down the Colonnade... maybe even that time they fell at a frat party, made a flat-out brilliant comment in class, or gave me a reason to smile. W&L was the right choice. Nowhere else could I have started a magazine with three other underclassmen and have the school and student body give us their blessing and their money. Nowhere else could I have taken a swim test at 9 am in the morning half-hungover from freshmen orientation week. And nowhere else could I have met the most supportive of friends. Thanks for being there to laugh with me and at me—it's going to be hard to find friends who can measure up to all of you. And more importantly: Congratulations to the Class of 2006. Change can be rough, but remember it's what got us here, and it's what will get us where we want to go."

"I've run into faculty, students, and alumni all over the orld on vacations, and no matter how little I knew them eforehand, I end up in a long conversation every time. And e thing is, you aren't just sitting around making small talk. ou feel like you're with your best friends in the world, that aving a history on this campus gives you some secret bond.

There really is just a mystique about W&L that brings eople together. You can look into a stranger's eyes and know e's felt the thrill of walking up the hill to class on a beautiful pring morning (with frat cup in hand). Or stopped on her ay home from the library at 3AM just to stare at the lights on e Colonnade. Or seen the sun set over House Mountain, or lt the energy in Davidson Park when there are 4 or 5 band arties going. You just know when someone has spent time in rocking chair on a frat porch, realizing that life just doesn't et any better. And that's what I will miss most about Lexington, getting those experiences day in and day out. But at least know I will be able to have that secret to share for the rest of ny life, no matter where I find someone with the W&L conection."

"I'll miss all the unique Washington and Lee things: Fancy ress, fraternity life (notably living in the house sophomore ar), the Honor Code, the Speaking Tradition, Spring Term, d so on; I think everyone enjoyed those things. Hopefully I'll ver forget the good times, but there's one simple, everyday pect of campus life I think few people appreciate: the Colon-de at night. We have all seen it after walking home from the rary or a speaker in Lee Chapel, but it's best experienced late night, when no one's around so you can just stop and stare it for a while without looking weird. Not too many buildgs personify and exude a spirit, but these do. They demand higher standard of character in their presence. I felt this most night. There are no students hustling to class, no sunbeams ining on the columns, only silent buildings lit from within.
nly then does their significance stand out, unopposed by our ay-time activity. Such moments can be refreshing in many ays. Before you graduate, take the time and visit the Colon-de at night."

"Everything that I have been involved with W&L has fostered close relationships. From the first d ation, I have been surrounded by faces that I recogn and respect. And surprisingly, despite all of my c plaining, I would attempt to survive another hot a tiring preseason if I were doing it with those that I through our love of the process. My success in athle has proved to push me as a person to levels of endura patience, strength, pride and success that I would ne have gained elsewhere. My success in academics has ated a new voice inside of me that eagerly awaits the world. And as for the social aspects of college, there never a dull moment. I could not have asked for be friends, better coaches or better professors. Colleg what you make of it. Here, you have the fullest oppo nity to make it great. I have."

"The fact that some people still call me Stifler just tells e how far I have not come. Through the four years at &L, I have come to realize that this place is ridiculously vesome. I could not have had a better roommate freshen year, and my pledge class at Pi Kappa Phi cannot be oped. Cliché line coming up: I have made some memo-ble relationships. I will never forget the two years that I ent with my roommates at Cedar Creek. I am going to ncerely miss the Theater Department and all of the love ey have given me. I will miss all of the sketchy DJ pars in the Pi Kapp party room. To the underclassmen, I ve one piece of advice to give you that I learned from there. Just go for it. If you have a test the next day and your ends ask you to go out, then just go for it. If you have opportunity to see a speaker and you are uncertain, just for it. If you don't know where to go for spring break, would highly recommend Key West. I LOVE W&L! And ey West rocked my face off."

Faculty

The merits of a W&L education are numerous, but by far, students almost unanmiously agree that one of the biggest appeals of the university is the quality of the faculty. Whether they are designing a new and interesting spring term course or inviting students into their homes for dinner, W&L professors are constantly going out of their way to ensure that students receive a challenging and quality liberal arts education during their four years. Students have the opportunity to take study abroad trips with faculty members or engage in research. It is because of the dedication of the faculty that students learn lessons that last well beyond the final exam.

Organizations

College is all about meeting new people and experiencing new things, and many W&L students chose to broaden their perspectives by joining an organization. The presence of over 100 student run organizations on campus allowed anyone to find something that interested them. Service organizations such as Nabors, Habitat for Humanity, and the newly formed Campus Kitchens Project allowed students to get involved with the greater Lexington community. Cultural organizations such as SAIL and MSA gave students the opportunity to learn from their peers who came from foreign countries. Political organizations such as College Republicans and Young Democrats worked to expose and promote different viewpoints. No matter what their purpose, all student organizations helped enrich the W&L experience.

Music professor Dr. Gordon Spice envisions what it will be like to conduct the University Chamber Singers in the new rehearsal hall.

The Arts

Construction has been underway this year for the new music and arts building, Wilson Hall, which will soon replace duPont Hall. The building is scheduled to open for classes in the fall of 2006. The building will provide new state of the art facilities for music and art majors and open up new opportunities for participation and learning in the arts.

South America was the hot spot for tours this year. The University Wind Ensemble traveled to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil over spring break, and the University Chamber Singers toured Argentina and Uruguay. Meanwhile, W&L hosted its first a cappella festival in over 20 years.

Perhaps most exciting was the joint production by the music and theater departments, Gilbert and Sullivan's The Pirates of Penzance, held during spring term. Robert O. and Elizabeth M. Bentley provided the school with an endowment for an annual musical, and Pirates was the very first production to be held as a result of this endowment.

Everyone brought a lot to the group, and everyone had a lot of fun supporting our sports teams. Whether working hard at practice or just hanging out the Generals Cheerleaders always had a lot of spirit! GO GENERALS!" -Senior Kasee Sparks

Sports

Athletics at Washington & Lee succeed. Whether students play club, intramural or varsity sports, there exists a competitiveness and drive that shows from the classroom to the fields. We, the Generals, will not accept second best, and the scoreboards and season reviews you are about to read prove this mentality. Women and men athletes have garnered Conference, State and National recognition throughout the year. And the seniors graduating need not fear, for the teams continue to be stacked for the future. Congrats to all of the teams and individuals this year! Way to make W&L proud.

Baseball

The 2006 campaign was a tale of two seasons for the Washington and Lee baseball team.

The Generals stormed out of the gate en route to a 13-4-1 record, but ended the season losing 13 of their final 18 games to finish the year with an 18-15-1 overall record and a 10-8 mark in the ODAC. The Generals qualified for the ODAC Tournament as the No. 6 seed, but lost 6-2 to top-seeded Bridgewater and then fell 5-4 in 11 innings to fifth-seeded Guilford to end their season.

W&L jumped out to a 6-2-1 start behind an offense that averaged 9.3 runs per game during that stretch. Following a 6-2 loss at Shenandoah, the Generals won five consecutive games and six of their next seven en route to the 13-4-1 record. The winning streak started with a doubleheader sweep of Emory & Henry in which W&L out scored the Wasps, 35-7. In a 23-3 win in the second game, senior shortstop Scott Gosselink rewrote the W&L record book. Gosselink established new W&L records for runs and total bases and tied the record for hits, extra-base hits and triples, while hitting for the cycle.

W&L then dropped five of its next six games, but a 6-4 win over Guilford propelled the Generals' to a three-game winning streak, including wins over Dickinson and Roanoke, that upped their record to 17-9-1 overall and 9-5 in the ODAC.

However, W&L dropped six of its final seven games to close out the season. The lone win was an 8-7 victory over Randolph-Macon. The Generals trailed 7-6 heading into their last at-bat against the Yellow Jackets, but senior first baseman Taylor McConnell tied the game at 7-7 with a solo homerun and following the first out of the inning, sophomore outfielder James Madden jacked a solo shot to give W&L the 8-7 victory.

Madden and McConnell were both named to the All-ODAC team. Madden, a second team selection, led the team in hits, runs, homeruns, triples, total bases and slugging percentage. He was also second on the team in batting average, RBI and on-base percentage, while hitting nine doubles. Madden's five triples and 94 total bases were both the second-most in a season in W&L history.

McConnell, an honorable mention pick, played in 32 games with 31 starts and batted .301 with a team-high 15 doubles, three homeruns, 24 runs, 26 RBI and a team-best 22 walks. He finished his career as W&L's all-time leader with 47 career doubles. Gosselink ended his stellar career ranked among W&L's all-time Top 10 in 10 different categories. The Generals will also have to replace senior centerfielder David Mackenzie, the school's all-time leader with 32 hit-by pitches.

Senior Captain, Taylor McConnell

"This year was somewhat of a letdown after the surprising run we made in the 2005 campaign. Although the team struggled at certain points during the season, there were many highlights as well. Whether it be coming back in the bottom of the last inning with two home runs to beat Randolph Macon and the ODAC pitcher of the year, or making another run at the ODAC tournament, the team accomplished many of our preseason goals. As a captain and graduating senior, seeing this team come together as players and friends was very rewarding. Next years team looks to be one of the best in the programs history as they only lose three players. James Madden, David Miller, and Terrence McKelvey all had great years and will be returning for 2007 to guide the offense. These offensive juggernauts, coupled with a more experienced, motivated pitching staff led by Clayton Edwards will surely guide the Generals back to the ODAC tournament next year."

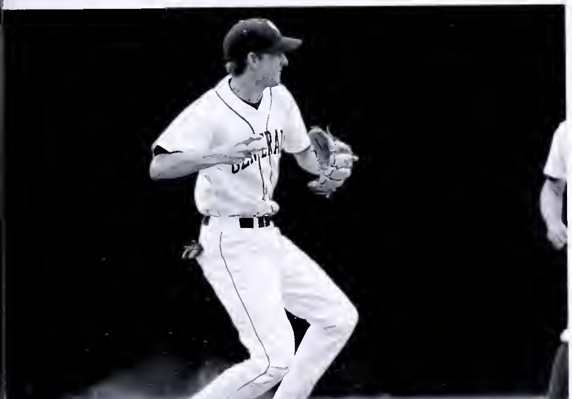
Senior David Mackenzie plays in dirt and still looks good. McKenzie was a team captain and three year letterwinner for the Generals. He entered the season as W&L's all time leader in hit-by-pitch.

Senior Scott Gosselink dips low in preparation to out a player. Gosselink was a two year team captain and three year letter winner for the Generals. During his career with the Generals he played shortstop and second base.



Junior Ray Sweeney stares down the runner and gets ready to throw the lightning bolt.

Junior David Miller prepares to rip a hit. Miller entered the season as W&L's career leader in batting average.

Men's Basketball

When speaking about his team during the preseason, Washington and Lee Head Men's Basketball Coach Adam Hutchinson said that he could see his team building for the future, but that the improvement may not show in terms of wins and losses. While the Generals did graduate from two wins a year ago to four wins (4-19 overall) during the 2005-06 season, the true measure of improvement was not evident to the casual observer. However, those that saw W&L play could tell that there was significant improvement.

The difference was that the Generals were competitive with even the best teams in the league. Though a 4-14 conference mark may not point toward that claim, consider that W&L fell in seven games that were decided by seven points or less. One of the main reasons for the close losses was the team's youth, while an injury to one of the team's top players also didn't help. The Generals roster boasted no seniors, just three juniors, four sophomores and seven freshmen. Regardless, W&L showed its competitive fire right from the start as the Generals began the season by hosting a tournament with some stiff competition. Their winning stretch included wins over Lynchburg (78-71) and Eastern Mennonite (91-68), and a 75-74 loss at Guilford in the season finale.

Bienemann was recognized as an Honorable Mention All-ODAC selection after leading the team in scoring and rebounding. Halkitis was second on the team in scoring, followed by sophomore forward John Mumper and freshman guard Isaiah Goodman. Kusimo returned for the final six games of the season and finished with averages of 9.7 points and 5.6 rebounds per game. The Generals also received significant contributions from White and several freshmen, including forwards Ben Heller and Ryan Owens, and guard Chris McHugh.

With everyone on the roster returning, and with the experiences of the 2005-06 season under their belt, the Generals are primed to turn the corner in 2006-07.

> "This season did not go as well as planned but we made progress toward our long-term goals. We had great individual and team performances at certain times, and we hope to build upon those next year. Most memorable game was at Macon when we were one shot away from taking down a top team. It was definitely one of our biggest games and Chris Halkitis hit a shot and John Mumper and myself made a stop to send it into overtime. The final score was within a basket or two I believe. We expect to turn games like these into wins next season."

Coming off a school-record tying 13 wins and its second straight trip to the ODAC Tournament in 2004-05, the 2005-06 Washington and Lee women's basketball team returned four starters and was poised for a breakout season.

Despite this fact, the Generals' tough early season schedule put them in a hole that would prove tough to climb out of. Eventually, W&L found its winning ways and finished with an 11-15 overall mark and an 8-12 record in the ODAC. The Generals qualified for the ODAC Tournament once again, but found themselves overmatched again by facing the tournament's top seeded team in Randolph-Macon. As disappointing as the loss was, there would be plenty for the Generals to savor from the season.

The season began with a high point as W&L opened with a win over Swarthmore in the Garnet's season-opening Invitational. A 67-60 win over SC made for a championship matchup with a Mary Washington club that finished the regular season with a 25-1 overall record. The Eagles prevailed 60-53, but the Generals served notice that they could play with even the best of teams.

Three days later, the Generals would prove the point again by facing the Eagles for a second time. This time, Mary Washington emerged with a 61-53 victory in Fredericksburg, Va. A few loses ensued but W&L really began to right the ship with the record-breaking 89-75 win over Emory & Henry. Along with setting school records for points and rebounds, the Generals also had three players record a double-double for the first time in school history. Senior guard Louisa Feve notched 16 points and a season-high 10 rebounds, Hunsinger added 15 points, 15 rebounds and a game-high seven blocks, while freshman forward Kara Nadeau totaled 13 points and a career-high 14 rebounds. Additionally, sophomore forward Kristen Krouchick tied her career-high with 26 points.

Following a 69-62 victory at Mary Baldwin, W&L won its third straight game and made school history in a 78-70 win at Roanoke. Not only was it the Generals' first-ever win over the Maroons, but Hunsinger became just the sixth player in program history to surpass the 1,000 point plateau.

With a win in one of its last two conference games, the Generals could have earned the No. 6 seed in the ODAC Tournament. W&L traveled to Guilford where it held a 10-point lead in the second half, before falling 63-56 and then dropped a 94-66 decision at Emory & Henry to close out the regular season and earn the No. 8 seed in the conference tournament.

While the Generals' campaign ended in the quarterfinals of the ODAC Tournament for the third consecutive year, a handful of players had stellar seasons and despite the graduation of Feve, the Generals bring back the other four starters and several key reserves. With all of this returning experience, W&L should continue its path toward the top of the ODAC.

Men's Cross Country

The W&L men's cross country program entered the 2005 campaign with an exact picture of their identity. The Generals returned several of their top runners, including 2004 ODAC and Region Runner of the Year Nathan Johnson.

The Generals held Johnson out of the season-opening W&L Invitational, but caught a glimpse of their depth as sophomore Alex Mahoney, the 2004 ODAC Rookie of the Year, won the meet. He was followed by freshman Michael Welsh in second place and senior Andrew Johnson in 10th place. Johnson quickly regained his old form in his first meet of the season, finishing fourth out of 229 runners at the NYU Invitational. Mahoney was right on his heels, placing fifth.

By the time W&L had arrived at the Virginia Division III Championships in early October, Head Coach John Tucker had an established squad that extended at-least seven deep. Johnson won the state championship and led the Generals to the title, but it was W&L's depth that was most impressive. All told, six runners earned all-state honors, with Mahoney finishing as the runner-up to Johnson for runner of the year. Welsh placed fourth and was followed by Andrew Johnson, sophomore Andrew Friski, and freshman Alex Jackson.

Two weeks later, the Generals won their second straight ODAC title, finishing first out of nine teams at the ODAC Championships. W&L boasted six of the Top 12 runners in the race and all earned All-ODAC recognition. Johnson posted his second consecutive ODAC Runner of the Year award. Mahoney placed second, while Welsh joined both as First Team All-ODAC runners by placing fifth overall. Freshman Vance Berry earned second team recognition after placing eighth overall, and he was joined on the second team by Andrew Johnson and sophomore Andrew Friski, who was 12th overall. Tucker was named the ODAC Coach of the Year and Johnson claimed his second straight ODAC Men's Cross Country Scholar-Athlete of the Year award.

After a week of training, the Generals set their sights on the NCAA Regional. W&L placed fourth out of 18 teams, led by Johnson and Mahoney, who both earned all-region laurels. Johnson's finish was good enough to earn him another trip to nationals, where he placed 62nd out of 211 runners. With six of their top eight runners returning, the Generals should be among the favorites to win the ODAC again next season.

"The Men's Cross Country team pretty much dominated the ODAC once again. The team will be taking a heavy loss without the Johnsons next year but will almost certainly win on account of its raw talent. The team scored a whopping 26 points at the 2005 ODAC Championships defeating 2nd place Lynchburg by around 400 or so points (in cross country the low score wins). In fact, had the meet been scored as a W&L vs. The Rest Of The Conference, the Rabid Hound Dawgs (replacing the former effete name "Gennies") would have still emerged victorious."

The 2005 Washington and Lee women's cross country program entered the season with a good many question marks -- most notably having to replace four all-conference runners from the season before.

The transition was made easier by the return of sophomore Lindsay Erickson after winning the 2004 ODAC Championship and advancing to the NCAA nationals. However, the Generals had lost much of their depth, an important piece to any winning cross country squad.

Two-time ODAC Coach of the Year Kris Hoey never wavered and brought in six new runners that helped her program win a second straight ODAC Championship.

W&L's championship drive was spearheaded by freshman Jackie Burns, who placed first on the team in all six races in which she competed. She began the season with a second overall finish in the W&L Invitational and claimed Virginia Division III Runner of the Year honors by winning the state championship meet and leading the Generals to a state championship finish. Burns kept the momentum going and later won the ODAC Championship meet in being named the ODAC Runner and Rookie of the Year.

Erickson followed up her fine freshman campaign by finishing second overall at the ODAC Championships and earning First Team All-ODAC honors. Freshman Becca Taylor and senior Mary Christopher joined Burns and Erickson on the First Team All-ODAC squad, while junior Jenny Ratzel garnered Second Team All-ODAC recognition.

Two weeks later, the Generals were gunning for a bid to the NCAA National Championships as they competed in the NCAA South/Southeast Regional held at Hendrix College. The Generals produced a fourth place finish out of 22 teams and narrowly missed a bid to the NCAA Championships. Burns, Christopher and Erickson each earned all-region honors based up their finishes. Burns crossed the finish line 11th with a time of 23:06.2. Christopher was 25th overall with a time of 23:39.5 and Erickson completed the course in 23:39.9, placing 26th overall.

Field Hockey

Entering the 2005 season, W&L field hockey Head Coach Wendy Orrison knew that the Generals' performance at the W&L Turf Field would be a key to their success this year.

Her team proved her prophecy as the Generals boasted a 13-1 home record en route to a 15-6 (7-1 ODAC) record, the program's first-ever ODAC Championship and first-ever appearance in the NCAA Tournament. The 15 overall victories and seven ODAC wins were just two of several school records the Blue and White established during the season.

W&L came out of the gates slowly with a 1-3 record, but improved to 4-3 with a three-game winning streak.

After dropping to 4-5 overall, W&L shutout Roanoke (2-0) to start a school-record 11-game winning streak. The Generals outscored the opposition 33-8 during the run.

W&L concluded the regular season with a 12-5 overall record and earned the top seed in the ODAC Tournament. It knocked off Sweet Briar, 4-1, in the quarterfinals and Randolph-Macon, 5-1, in the semifinals. The Generals then defeated second-seeded Lynchburg, 2-1, on a pair of goals by senior forward Jane Beall to capture the program's first-ever ODAC Championship. With the win, W&L received an automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament where it lost 2-0 to Montclair State in the first round.

Although the Generals' season came to an end with a loss, W&L still was involved with the NCAA Tournament as host of the NCAA Division III Final Four on November 18-19.

Senior Captain, Jane Beall

"Winning ODACs was a great way to end four years of hockey and a good way to give back to a program that's given so much to us. I think that we're finally at the point where we all want to win and know that we can. Each recruiting class has added something to the team that was missing before, and I think we've turned out to be a pretty complete team."

W&L capped its stellar campaign with several players receiving all-conference accolades. Korte and senior midfielder S.B. Northen, the ODAC Tournament MVP, were both named to the All-ODAC First Team, while Beall and junior defender Rebecca Hatchett were selected to the All-ODAC Second Team. Also, senior midfielder Kate Lester and junior defender Kim Babbitt earned honorable mention recognition. Additionally, freshman Liz Garson was tabbed the Rookie of the Year, Harrison was named the Scholar-Athlete of the Year, and Orrison was selected as Coach of the Year.

Northen became the program's third player to garner all-region honors as she was named to the NFHCA All-South Region Second Team. Beall finished the season with a school-record tying 38 points and graduates as the all-time leader in points, goals, and assists. Korte's 10 assists were a single-season record, while Harrison capped her career as the all-time leader in goals-against average, save percentage, saves, and shutouts. Senior Elise Gelinas, who split time in goal with Harrison all season long, finished the year with a program-record 1.40 goals-against average.

Football

The 2005 Washington and Lee football season was surprising for many reasons. The Generals finished 7-3 overall, the highest win total in exactly 20 years. However, what was most surprising was how W&L came to record its best season since 1985.

The Generals either broke or tied 34 school records during the year, fueled by an offense which averaged 381.5 yards and 29.9 points per game. Both totals ranked as the second-highest in school history.

Expectations were that the Generals would win games on defense, just as they did during a 2004 season which saw them rank in the Top 25 nationally in total defense and scoring defense. What a difference a year makes.

W&L opened the season with a tough Alfred club who was coming off an 8-3 season in 2004. The Generals led just 10-7 at the break, but began to figure out a few things en route to 26 second half points and a 36-22 victory. Among the many deductions was that the duo of senior quarterback Greg Tweardy (Bethel Park, Pa.) and sophomore wide receiver Jack Martin (Princeton, N.J.) could be a deadly combination. Tweardy tossed a school-record five touchdown passes, including a school-record tying three to Martin as the Generals rolled.

The following week, W&L struggled on offense, but the defense showed glimpses of its 2004 form in defeating Sewanee, 10-7.

W&L entered its third game of the season against Centre wondering how good it may be. The Colonels walked away with a 35-26 win, but the Generals realized that their offense was as strong as it appeared during the season-opening win over Alfred. Tweardy threw for a then career-best 310 yards and three touchdowns, with 206 yards and two touchdowns being recorded by Martin.

The following week, W&L put all the pieces together and the result was a 44-7 win over Randolph-Macon, the first by a W&L team in Ashland since the 1989 campaign. Freshman Stuart Sitterson (Atlanta, Ga.) began to establish himself as another offensive threat for the Generals, rushing for 48 yards and one touchdown on eight carries. He also returned a punt 46 yards for a touchdown, the first punt return touchdown by a W&L player since the 1979 season.

Bouncing back against Catholic the following week proved to be difficult, but a Tweardy to Martin touchdown with five seconds remaining gave the Generals a 27-24 win. Tweardy upped his career-high with 395 yards and two touchdowns, Martin caught nine passes for 217 yards and two scores, Sitterson amassed 181 all-purpose yards and one touchdown, and junior receiver Colton Ward (Charlotte, N.C.) began to shake double teams for 99 receiving yards.

The season would be defined the following week when the Generals faced a Hampden-Sydney team that many believed to be a playoff contender. Again, W&L started slowly but picked up steam late in the first half en route to a thrilling 38-34 victory and a 5-1 overall record. Tweardy again had a career week, throwing for 397 yards and two touchdowns, including a 29-yarder to Ward on a 4th-and-2 play with 34 seconds remaining that proved to be the game-winner.

Brian Gallagher, Senior Captain

"The season was the program's best in the past 20 years, which is neat, and the seniors are one of the winningest classes in the past 30 years of W&L football, so we got that goin for us, which is nice."

The Hampden-Sydney game served notice that W&L had arrived on the big stage, but the next two games would determine whether the Generals were a playoff team. The first was against a Guilford team that won its final four games of the season. The win streak began by scoring a 12-yard touchdown on 4th-and-10 with three seconds remaining against the Generals. The 28-26 loss was disappointing for W&L, but a win over Bridgewater the following week would still give W&L the ODAC title.

The Generals outplayed the 2005 NCAA Quarterfinalists for much of the game, but could not overcome three red zone interceptions and three blocked kicks in a 17-13 loss. The Generals bounced back, however, the post victories in their final two games, defeating Emory & Henry (45-7) on the road for the first time since 1981 and downing Case Western Reserve (34-10) in the season finale.

Upon looking back at the season, it's tough for the Generals to consider what might have been. W&L's three losses were by a total of 15 points to three teams that combined to go 24-9overall.

Tweardy shredded the record books by completing 65.6 percent of his passes for 2,570 yards and 22 touchdowns.

Martin had the finest receiving season in school history, catching 70 passes for 1,353 yards and 15 touchdowns. He finished as runner-up for the Dudley Award which is presented to the Virginia Player of the Year. Ward was named Second Team All-ODAC after totaling 1,261 all-purpose yards and eight touchdowns, and Sitterson chipped in 1,185 all-purpose yards and nine touchdowns. Together, Ward and Sitterson returned four kicks for touchdowns and helped W&L lead the nation in kickoff return average (29.4 ypr.). Martin, Ward and Sitterson will all return, along with First Team All-ODAC offensive lineman Hunter Whitfield (Tuscaloosa, Ala.).

Defensively, W&L remained among the top teams in the ODAC led by First Team All-ODAC selections Liam Murray (Oneonta, N.Y.), Brian Gallagher (Potomac, Md.) and Mark Snoddy (Atlanta, Ga). Murray added the honor of Virginia Division II-III Defensive Lineman of the Year.

"If student support at our games is any indication, only half of this paragraph will be read. This is unfortunate because 2005 witnessed the best season of General's football in twenty years. Next year's team has the potential to improve even more, so I beg of you Washington and Lee, put away your visually painful cocktail dresses and ties and wear something comfortable so you might actually stay for the entire game. For those mighty warriors who did provide support for all sixty minutes, we as players are forever in your debt."

Men's Golf

W&L Head Golf Coach Gavin Colliton knew he'd be taking the tee box for the 2006 season with another young squad. What he didn't know was how much those young golfers would progress during the course of the season and how much they would accomplish along the way. W&L began the season with a second-place finish at the Randolph-Macon Invitational. The Generals were also carried by their youth as sophomore Nathaniel James won the tournament with a 71-68--139. Sophomore Steven Spivey finished eighth, while freshman Andrew Green finished tied for 10th.

The very next tournament brought doubts though, as the Generals placed 16th out of 18 teams at the Guilford Invitational. The Generals struggled again two weeks later as they placed 11th of 15 teams at the Greensboro Invitational. Again though, James would carry the load and won the tournament with a 73-68--141.

Less than a week later, things started to come together as W&L won the Virginia Division III Championship for the second straight season. James continued his stellar play by winning the event, but the remainder of the team began to catch up, including freshman Beau Allen, who finished fifth.

After a long break for the winter months, the Generals took back to the links in mid-March and played like they were in mid-season form with a second place finish at the Barton College Invitational. An eighth-place finish out of 24 teams at the Jekyll Island Invitational a week later started giving the young Generals plenty of momentum and confidence for the stretch run. James tied for 11th overall and junior Anthony Zappin began playing well as the Generals headed towards the ODAC Tournament. The regular season ended with a win in the W&L Buck Leslie Invitational. Spivey placed second and was joined in the Top 10 by James, Zappin, junior Matt Nickles and Allen.

At this point, the Generals were firing on all cylinders heading into the ODAC Championship. W&L shot a 306-302--608 and finished in second place, just 12 strokes behind Guilford. Allen won the event with a 74-74--148 and earned ODAC Rookie of the Year honors. James was named the ODAC Player of the Year after tieing for seventh. Zappin tied for 10th and was named the ODAC Golf Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

James was one of five individuals nationally chosen to participate in the NCAAs. His tremendous season culminated with a 34th place finish out of 120 golfers and he was named PING First Team All-South Region and Third Team All-American.

After a strong year of long drives, crisp iron play, chip-ins, and draining putts, our team ended up being ranked 15th in the nation. Sophomore Nathaniel James qualified for nationals as an individual and finished 34th in the nation, earning him all-american honors. Men's Lacrosse

The 2006 W&L men's lacrosse season may have appeared to be a disappointment to some. The Generals finished with just a 7-6 overall record. However, a closer look at the season will bring happy thoughts about the seasons to come.

W&L played its usual brutal schedule, and did so with one of the youngest teams in the history of the program. The Generals' roster sported just two seniors, while the starting lineup featured six underclassmen. Furthermore, of the Generals' six losses, five came to teams ranked in the Top 10 and the sixth loss was to a team ranked 17th.

W&L's young squad was out matched in an early 17-2 loss to second-ranked Gettysburg, but the team recovered to become a seasoned group that hung with a talented Roanoke team (ranked third) for three periods in the ODAC Semifinals before the Maroons senior experience took over.

W&L was a fun team to watch in 2006 as evidenced by the free-wheeling style brought by the youth. Freshman attackman Tim Skeen finished the season as the team's scoring leader with 35 points on 17 goals and a team-best 18 assists. He earned Second Team All-ODAC honors and was the ODAC Rookie of the Year. Fellow freshman Harry St. John also brought scoring to the midfield and finished second in scoring with 32 points on a team-best 24 goals and eight assists en route to Second Team All-ODAC laurels. Freshman faceoff specialist Seldon Clarke dominated at the faceoff X, winning 64.0 percent of his draws. Another freshman, defenseman James Shanahan, started all 13 games and was arguably among the team's best defenders all season long.

Sophomore attackman Ned Rider started all 13 games and finished third on the team in scoring with 29 points on 22 goals and seven assists. The common theme here being that the Generals have plenty of good, young talent that will be the core that lifts W&L back to the top of the ODAC in the coming years.

Martin and Ryan finished tied for fourth on the team with 22 points, while Arcati tallied five points and steadied the youngsters on the second midfield line. Goodwin and McCombs both garnered Second Team All-ODAC laurels, while Lalli was a preseason All-American entering the season.

Sophomore midfielder Spotty Robins earned Honorable Mention All-ODAC honors, as did senior midfielder Perrin Monroe, whose lost leadership will be among the few setbacks for the Generals heading into the 2007 season.

Women's Lacrosse

When interviewed during the preseason, Washington and Lee Head Women's Lacrosse Coach Jan Hathorn stated that her goals were to win the ODAC, get back to the NCAA Tournament, try to repeat as a winner in the NCAA Tournament and prove that last year wasn't a fluke. The 2006 squad proved Hathorn to be a prophet as they won their fourth consecutive ODAC Championship, made their fourth straight appearance in the NCAA Tournament and defeated Christopher Newport, 19-9, in the first round before falling to No. 4 The College of New Jersey, 16-6, in the second round. The 10th-ranked Generals finished the season with a school-record 16 wins, a perfect 8-0 mark in the ODAC and had an 11-game winning streak during the season, the second-longest in school history.

The Generals, ranked 11th in the preseason polls, began the season with an 8-6 loss to No. 14 St. Mary's, but won their next three games by a combined score of 47-15. W&L then went 2-2 in its next four games and stood at 5-3 overall (3-0 ODAC). However, the Generals knocked off then-No. 4 Colorado College, 15-7, in their next game which started the 11-game winning streak. Over that stretch, W&L scored 21 goals in wins over Catholic, Lynchburg and Guilford.

The Generals headed into their regular-season finale at Virginia Wesleyan with the ODAC regular season title and No. 1 seed for the ODAC Tournament on the line as both teams entered the game with a 7-0 league mark. The Marlins led 8-7 with 15:57 remaining, but W&L tied the game just 1:49 later on an unassisted goal by senior attacker Amanda Strickler. Sophomore attacker Christine Bender then scored the game-winning goal off an assist from Strickler with just 4:36 left in the contest to give W&L a 9-8 victory.

In the ODAC Tournament, the Generals defeated Roanoke, 12-2, in the semifinals before besting Virginia Wesleyan, 13-7, in the ODAC Championship game to clinch their fourth straight title.

W&L hosted Christopher Newport in the first round of the NCAA Tournament and fell behind 3-0 and 5-3, but fought back to defeat the Lady Captains, 19-9. However, the Generals' 11-game winning streak and season both came to a close with the 16-6 loss to TCNJ in the second round.

W&L had six players named First Team All-ODAC, the most first team selections in program history. Strickler, the ODAC Player of the Year, was joined on the first team by senior attacker Kate Lester, senior defender Rachel Wallick, junior midfielder Maggie Megear, sophomore defender Kat Michaels and sophomore goalkeeper Sarah Tilbor. Also, Hathorn was named the ODAC Coach of the Year for the fifth time in the last six years and for the eight time overall.

The riding team started off their season with a bang, winning their first competition and placing second out of nine teams in their second show. Helping them to their wins was new coach Amy Reistrup. Their season continued to be strong through their last shows in February with many team members winning their respective classes. Five members of the team (Caitlin Lane, Sarah Murray, Brittany Bansak, Alice Shih, Karen Klein) qualified individually to continue to regionals, where all five advanced to zones. Caitlin Lane further represented the team at Nationals held in Harrisburg, PA. The team capped off their season in April by winning their first-ever ODAC championship, held at Randolph Macon Women's College, where Caitlin Lane claimed ODAC Rider of the Year, Katie Goodrich was named ODAC Scholar-Athlete of the Year, and Coach Amy Reistrup was chosen as the ODAC Coach of the Year. Both Lane and Goodrich were also named to the All-ODAC Team for their fourth year in a row. The team will lose seniors Katie Goodrich, Caitlin Lane, and Sarah Murray, but they are succeeded by a very capable and strong team.

Men's Rugby

Story by: Arthur Fang

Why do we belong in this sports section? First of all, we celebrated our fortieth anniversary in the fall. We made it to the playoffs, the Ed Lee Tournament, for the second time in three years. We have more diversity than any varsity team on campus, with members from almost every fraternity and three international students.

Most importantly, coach Tom Lovell and sixteen members of the club toured Argentina during spring break. No club in W&L history has ever travelled overseas, and only one varsity team (the Football team) has accomplished this feat before.

The tour was absolutely significant to the team on many fronts. It was a perfect bonding experience for the whole crew. The team only grew closer and stronger. We also got to know a lot about Argentina, thanks for the Tovos and Suarezs' wonderful help in planning the tour. The training session with the Argentina national team assistant coach Mario Barandarian was an once-in-a-lifetime experience. The man's passion for rugby was an inspiration to us all. Finally, we showed ourselves what kind of rugby we were capable of playing in those two close contests in Mar del Plata and Buenos Aires.

After Tino Tovo and Lovell's inspiring pre-game prep talks, we raised our level so much that we almost won the second game. The match was cancelled with ten minutes to go in the second half because of a devastating hailstorm. When it hit Buenos Aires, a tree fell onto the field before players and fans started to run for cover.

Looking back, the 2005-2006 season was a success by all means, and upperclassman leadership was a major reason. Club president Robert "Albino" Decosimo was a stud on and off the field. A former varsity soccer standout, Decosimo's leadership and tackling were indispensable to the pack.

Hooker Richard Bruno was equally important to the Minks. His stabilizing presence in the scrum and reliable lineout throwing adequately (perhaps) made up for his antics at Agustin's house. Note that he played rugby in all four years of his college career which effectively made him a better individual than every senior on the team.

After selling his soul to the basketball team for the last three years, David Will finally came to his senses in the fall and joined the club. The Tom Green look-alike was a superb ball carrier. In addition, his height and sure hands provided W&L with the kind of dominance in the lineout that we never saw before. Chris Applewhite and Adam Jarczyk were rookies as well but they both garnered respect by playing their hearts out on the field and providing depth on the sideline, another key attribute that the Minks lacked in years past.

To conclude, the club needs to thank the Mrs. Tovo and Mrs. Suarez for their instrumental role in making this spring break tour happen. Not only did they spend a lot of time with us during the trip to ensure that everything would go smoothly, we are forever indebted to these two great Argentine families for their sincerity in creating a genuine cultural experience for us.

Finally, the club wants to extend their undying gratitude to our beloved coach Tom Lovell for sticking to us through thick and thin (your wife actually wrote this, sent it to me and begged me to insert this to booster your self-esteem, I hope you feel better).

In all seriousness, this season would not have been a success without Lovell's dedication and constant vigilance. We can only hope that he will stay with us for as long as he can, for we all know replacing a legend like Lovell is almost impossible.

Senior Captain, Robert Decosimo

"The '05-'06 season can accurately be described by two simple words: Robert Decosimo. He basically showed us that even though there is no 'I' in team, there is in fact an 'I' in wIn. While the Argentina Tour, state tournament, and visit from the Camel Jockey Rugby Club were exciting and good for the growth of the team, Robert's play and coaching after he tore his ACL really set this year apart."

Men’s Soccer

The 2005 Washington and Lee men’s soccer season was all about one theme -- overtime contests. The Generals played in seven overtime games, including six double-overtime contests. W&L went 3-2-2 in those seven games and finished the season with a 9-6-2 overall record and a 5-2-2 mark in the ODAC. The Generals earned the number three seed in the ODAC Tournament and knocked off sixth-seeded Randolph-Macon, 4-1, in the quarterfinals before being upset by seventh-seeded Eastern Mennonite, 2-1, in the semifinals.

Senior defender Derrick Lott and sophomore forward Jack Palmer earned First Team All-ODAC honors, while sophomore midfielder Josh Dodds was named to the second team. Senior defender Roger Morscheiser garnered honorable mention recognition and 30th-year Head Coach Rolf Piranian was named the ODAC Coach of the Year.

The Generals closed out the regular season with a 1-0 loss to Virginia Wesleyan and a 2-1 win over Lynchburg to finish the regular season with a 9-5-2 record.

Palmer led the team in scoring with 24 points on a team-high 11 goals and two assists. He also had a team-best five game-winning goals, which is tied for the second most in a single season in program history. Palmer’s seven career game-winning goals are tied for fifth all-time. Dodds finished second on the team in points, goals, and game-winning goals, while his three assists tied for the team lead. In goal, sophomore Ted Sheedy posted a 7-4-2 record with a 0.93 goals-against average and a .740 save percentage.

Even though the senior class is pretty hard to replace, next year's team will be strong, and they will go places if they work hard to put things together. They have three solid captains in front of them.

The Washington and Lee women's soccer team had a record-breaking season in 2005. The Generals set or tied five school records on their way to a 13-3-3 (9-0-2 ODAC) season, an appearance in the semifinals of the ODAC Tournament and their third trip to the NCAA Tournament in the last four seasons.

A pair of individual records were tied along the way, including goals in a game (4) and assists in a game (3). Junior forward Anne Wiltshire tallied a school-record tying four goals in an 8-0 win over Randolph-Macon Woman's College, while sophomore forward Shana Oltmans notched a school-record tying three assists in the victory over R-MWC.

W&L also had five players named to the All-ODAC Team, including four first team selections.

The four players named to the first team were Wiltshire, senior defender Heather Rogers, senior midfielder Gina Von Sternberg, and sophomore defender Haley Bunting. Junior midfielder Maggie Megear was named to the second team.

Aggressive junior Maggie Megear goes for a slide tackle knocking her girl off balance.

The Generals' campaign got off to a rough start with a 3-0 loss to Johns Hopkins. They regrouped to post a 1-1 tie against Wooster, which began a 16-game unbeaten streak for the Blue and White.

The Generals began their school-record run of six straight shutouts with a 10-0 blanking of Hollins. Following a 0-0 double-overtime tie against Virginia Wesleyan, W&L defeated Bridgewater, Emory & Henry, Guilford, and Sweet Briar. The shutout streak ended with a 3-1 win at Roanoke.

W&L responded with two more shutout wins over Marymount and Lynchburg before defeating St. Mary's and tying Eastern Mennonite to finish the regular season with a 12-1-3 overall record.

The Generals earned the number two seed in the ODAC Tournament and knocked off Emory & Henry in the quarterfinals to set up a clash with Lynchburg in the semifinals. After a scoreless first half, the Hornets tallied a goal at the 68:10 mark to defeat W&L, 1-0, and snap the Generals' 16-game unbeaten streak.

The loss broke a string of 53 straight days without a defeat.

Although the Generals failed to make the ODAC Championship Game, they still received an at-large berth into the NCAA Tournament. The Generals traveled to Dickinson College to play Moravian in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. W&L took a 1-0 lead on a goal by freshman forward Anne Van Devender, but the Greyhounds tied the game at 1-1 just 2:11 later on a goal off a free kick. Moravian then scored off another free kick 2:46 into the second overtime to pull out a 2-1 victory.

Men's Swimming

While many believe in the old expression that it's harder to maintain success than attain it, the W&L swimming teams have tried their best to disprove the theory. The men posted a 6-1 record and captured their third straight Bluegrass Mountain Championship, while the women went 10-5 overall (6-0 ODAC) and won their 13th consecutive ODAC/Atlantic States title.

The men brought the BMC crown back to Lexington by amassing 812 points, followed by Transylvania (497), West Virginia Wesleyan (459.5), Fairmont State (439), Savannah Art & Design (407.5), Wingate (351), Wheeling Jesuit (230) and Asbury (53). Additionally, third-year Head Coach Joel Shinofield was named the BMC Coach of the Year for the third time, while 15 Generals earned First Team All-BMC honors.

Seniors Clark Barrineau and Reed Evans, juniors Ben Accinelli, Dave Croushore, Mike Ginder, Kevin Hayes and Maxwell Pike, sophomores Evan Fitzgerald, Will Hartmann, Tim McGlaston, Alex Sweet and Homer Winter, and freshmen Paul Crook, Chris Diebold and Brett Tatman were among those named to the All-Bluegrass swimming team.

The W&L men stormed out of the gate by winning their first four meets and then placed second out of five teams at the Davidson Invitational and first out of 12 schools at the Franklin & Marshall Invitational.

At the Davidson Invitational, the foursome of McGlaston, Evans, Sweet and Ginder won the 200-yard freestyle relay in a meet-record time of 1:26.37. The same quartet also captured the 200-yard freestyle in a pool-record time of 1:24.43 at the Franklin & Marshall Invitational.

Senior Captain, Clark Barrineau

"Our team really came together this year and it was the best experience in my four years. The boys improved a lot. Men's swimming has come a long way in my four years. We have gone from a losing team of 10 to a three time conference champ team of 24. I know that the seniors next year will keep it up."

Following a month layoff for winter break, W&L resumed its winning ways with a home win over No. 14 SUNY-Geneseo (130-75) and a road victory at Swarthmore (178-83) to improve to 6-0. However, the Generals then suffered their only loss of the season with a 146-115 loss to No. 9 Johns Hopkins.

At the Bluegrass Mountain Conference Championships, Hayes tied for first in the 400-yard IM in a school-record time of 4:08.38, while Barrineau won the 1000-yard freestyle in a school-record mark of 9:43.37. Ginder won the 200-yard backstroke in an NCAA "A" cut, meet- and school-record time of 1:50.61.

The next week at the Terrapin Invitational, the foursome of McGlaston, Evans, Sweet and Ginder captured the 200-yard freestyle relay in an NCAA "B" cut and school-record time of 1:23.24.

McGlaston, Evans, Sweet, Ginder, Crook, Diebold and Tatman participated in the NCAA Division III Men's Swimming and Diving Championships in Minneapolis, Minn. from Thu., Mar. 16-Sat., Mar. 18, where they finished 14th out of 53 teams.

Women's Swimming

While many believe in the old expression that it's harder to maintain success than attain it, the W&L swimming teams have tried their best to disprove the theory. The women claimed the ODAC/Atlantic States title with 827 points. Also, 15th-year Head Coach Kiki Jacobs was named the ODAC/Atlantic States Coach of the Year for the 10th time, while seven swimmers were named to the All-ODAC team. The seven selections were senior Kristine Holda, sophomores Jess Cobb and Amy Roberson, and freshmen Susan Mahoney, Julianne Miata, Jessica Shaw and Lindsey Strachan. Strachan was also named the ODAC Rookie of the Year. The W&L women ripped off seven consecutive home victories to start the season, including five wins over ODAC opponents.

The Generals had their seven-meet winning streak snapped with a pair of road losses at Gettysburg and at No. 9 Mary Washington, but responded with victories at Dickinson and against Bryn Mawr. The Generals then placed seventh out of 14 teams at the Franklin & Marshall Invitational before heading into the winter break.

Following the layoff, W&L closed out its ODAC schedule with a 161-100 victory at Randolph-Macon to earn its school-record tying 10th win of the season and finish a perfect 6-0 in the ODAC. It was the second straight season that the Generals went undefeated in conference action.

W&L then fell at home to 23rd-ranked SUNY-Geneseo, lost at Swarthmore and at home to No. 10 Johns Hopkins.

W&L regrouped to capture the ODAC/Atlantic State Championships where it set four school records. Holda won the 200-yard freestyle in a school-record time of 1:57.28, while Cobb, Shaw, Roberson and Holda captured the 200-yard medley relay in a school- and ODAC-record time of 1:51.88.

"The men's tennis team had another fun, successful year. Punctuated by a sweep of the ODAC's and a victory over Sewannee in the NCAA's, we returned to the same round in the NCAA tournament as last year. Unfortunately, we fell to Emory - the eventual national champions - for the second year in a row. Season highlights include Nat Estes' warm-up with Patrick Gee during the ODAC doubles semifinals as well as Stu's confession of his trip to the booth. Seriously, though, these past 4 years have been an amazing experience on the team, and we could not ask for better teammates. Though four seniors are graduating, we are glad that the future is bright for the Generals."

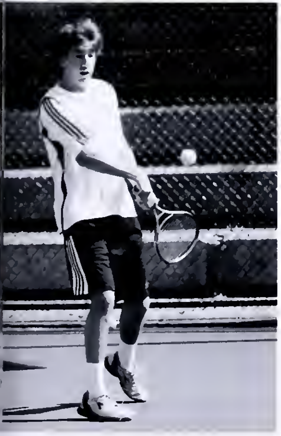
Men's Tennis



phomore Stuart Sanford uses his muscles return the ball over the net.

The 2006 Washington and Lee men's tennis season produced a consistent ending, but the year was anything but consistent for Head Coach David Detwiler and his troops. The sixth-year mentor juggled his lineup and recovered from a 2-3 start to lead the Generals to a 13-win season for the fourth straight year. W&L also won the ODAC Championship for the 11th straight season and qualified for the NCAA Tournament for the sixth straight year, advancing to the second round each time.

The early struggles could be attributed not to the team's play, but to the quality of opponent. W&L's three early losses were to a pair of Division I schools in Richmond (6-1) and Furman (7-0) and Division III power Emory University (7-0).

The Generals would go on to win five of their next six contests to improve to 7-4 overall. After a narrow 4-3 loss to Denison, the Generals again strung together a series of wins to improve to 11-5 overall heading into showdowns to three nationally-ranked squads. Prepared for a high, the team's spirits were dampened by a trio of 4-3 losses in matches that could have gone either way.

W&L's confidence grew again with the team claiming the ODAC title in mid-April and continued to grow with a 4-3 victory over Division I James Madison in late April.

W&L's resume of strong opponents persuaded the tournament selection committee to select them to the NCAA field and the Generals rewarded them with a 4-0 win over a solid Sewanee team in the opening round. However, the season came to an end as so many others had with a loss to Emory University in the second round.

Along the way, the Generals achieved some great things. Senior David Shay was named the ODAC Player of the Year after winning the league title at No. 1 singles and No. 3 doubles. A two-time All-American, Shay finished his stellar career ranked fifth all-time at W&L with 75 career singles victories.

Fellow seniors Jordan Eichenberger and Charles Anderson and sophomores Nat Estes, Seth Feibelman, Tim Ross and Sanford all earned All-ODAC honors as the Generals swept all six singles flights and two of the three doubles flights at the ODAC Championships. Additionally, Anderson was named the ODAC Men's Tennis Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

Women's Tennis

The Washington and Lee women's tennis program has become a certified juggernaut. The Generals have produced a 98-9 record over the past four years and have appeared in the NCAA Division III Championship match three times during that span. The only thing separating W&L from near perfection has been Emory University. Though the Generals entered the 2006 National Championship match with a 28-0 record and No. 1 ranking in Division III, the Eagles again stymied the Generals with a 5-1 victory and their fourth straight national championship.

Senior Captain, Patty Roberts

"We had another exciting and successful season. Everyone contributed to the success, from number 1 to number 16. Every player gave their best and worked their hardest at every practice and match. The team worked really well together this year, creating great doubles teams and continuing our strength in singles. We are all really happy with the results of the season and especially proud of Emily, W&L's own National Champion!"

The Generals took on all comers during the year, including 18 teams ranked among the Top 30 in the nation. Among them was a regular season meeting at Emory, where the Generals cruised to a 6-3 victory. As disappointing as the loss in the championship match is to the program, Head Coach Cinda Rankin and her players can be proud of the many accomplishments they achieved through the story book season.

Junior Emily Applegate capped a tremendous season by claiming the NCAA Singles Championship with a 6-3, 6-4 win over Amherst's Kristen Raverta. Applegate, who had already earned All-America honors after winning the ITA Southeast Region Singles Championship and finishing sixth at the ITA National Championships in the fall, finished the season with a 33-3 overall singles mark. She also earned All-America honors in doubles after teaming with junior Kristen McClung. Applegate added ODAC Player of the Year honors to her resume after claiming the ODAC Championship at No. 1 singles and No. 3 doubles.

Applegate was joined on the All-ODAC team by senior Lisa Mabry, junior Ginny Wortham, sophomores Rebecca Timmis, Leah Weston and Kelly Will and freshman Katie Tabb. Additionally, junior Katie Kingsbury was named the ODAC Scholar-Athlete of the Year. Tabb was named the ITA Atlantic South Region Rookie of the Year and also earned All-America honors in both singles and doubles after advancing to the semifinals of the NCAA doubles championship with Wortham and to the quarterfinals of the NCAA singles championship. Wortham earned All-America honors in doubles for her performance in the NCAA Championships playing with Tabb.

McClung rounded out the All-America citations after teaming with Applegate to win the ITA Doubles Regional during the fall.

As a team, the Generals' accomplishments were stunning. W&L posted a 17-1 overall record against ranked opponents, including wins over teams ranked first, third, fourth, eighth, ninth, 11th, 12th, 14th, 21st, 25th, 26th and 27th. Additionally, until the championship match, the Generals had not played a match with a score closer than 6-3.

The future looks bright for another run at the Division III title in 2007 as the Generals return every player that competed at the NCAA National Championships this spring.

Men's Track

The Washington and Lee men's and women's track programs continued their ascension towards the top of the ODAC with a stellar and record-breaking outdoor season.

The women placed third at the ODAC Championships with 119 points, which was the second-most in program history and just two points shy of second place. The men finished fourth at the ODAC Championship. Additionally, the women claimed 10 All-ODAC citations, had four ODAC champions and set five school records, while the men had a pair of All-ODAC performers and one ODAC champion.

At the men's meet, W&L had a pair of All-ODAC performers. Junior Ryan Edge won the high jump (6'4") to earn First Team All-ODAC accolades, while freshman Vance Berry was named Second Team All-ODAC with a second place finish in the 1500 meters (4:06.91).

W&L's performances at the ODAC Championships capped what was a stellar season.

With nearly its entire roster returning and the inclusion of another solid recruiting class, the future appears to be bright for the W&L Track & Field programs.

"Despite some key injuries, the men's track team put together a solid season in 2006 with 6 athletes placing at the ODAC championships. The team is extremely young, and it will be fun to watch how they do in the next couple years as they mature as a unit. The Washington and Lee men's and women's track programs continued their ascension towards the top of the ODAC with a stellar and record-breaking outdoor season.

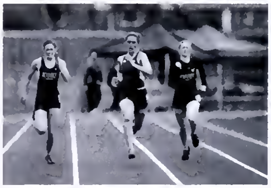
The men finished fourth at the ODAC Championship. Additionally, the women claimed 10 All-ODAC citations, had four ODAC champions and set five school records, while the men had a pair of All-ODAC performers and one ODAC champion.

In the women's meet, freshman Stacy Doornbos was named the ODAC Rookie of the Year after earning All-ODAC honors in four individual events and one relay. Doornbos garnered First Team All-ODAC accolades after winning the 200 meters (school-record 26.32) and long jump (17'1.50") and was Second Team All-ODAC with second place finishes in the 400 meters (school-record 58.85) and triple jump (school-record 34'7"). Doornbos then teamed up with freshmen Caroline Davis and Tara Hildenbrand and junior Sara Behmerwohld to earn Second Team All-ODAC recognition with a second place result in the 4x400 meter relay (school-record 4:07.99).



It's neck and neck.

In the 1,500 meters, freshman Becca Taylor was named First Team All-ODAC by winning the race (4:55.80) and classmate Jackie Burns earned Second Team All-ODAC honors with a second place result .

Davis also earned Second Team All-ODAC accolades by finishing second in the 400-meter hurdles (school-record 66.53), while freshman Elizabeth Webb was named Second Team All-ODAC with a second place finish in the 800 meters (2:23.65). Additionally, the foursome of junior Huntley Rodes, Davis, Hildenbrand and Behmerwohld won the 4x100 meter relay (52.54) to earn First Team All-ODAC honors.

With nearly its entire roster returning and the inclusion of another solid recruiting class, the future appears to be bright for the W&L Track & Field programs.

Volleyball

The Washington and Lee volleyball team continued its dominance of the ODAC during the 2005 season.

The Generals completed the season with a perfect ODAC record (10-0) for the fifth straight season and upped their win streak against ODAC schools to 68 straight matches in going 32-5 overall and winning their fifth straight ODAC crown.

The season got off to a rocky start after dropping matches to Christopher Newport and Emory in the season-opening W&L Invitational. But the senior-laden W&L lineup did not panic -- it merely got back to doing what it does best -- playing W&L volleyball.

The results were fantastic as W&L reeled off a school-record 21 straight victories over the course of the next month to improved to 28-3 overall. During the stretch, W&L surrendered just three games and capped another undefeated ODAC Regular Season. W&L went on to win the ODAC Championship and advance to its fifth straight NCAA Tournament. The Generals fell in the opening round to Southwestern (Texas), but it did not tarnish what had become another great chapter in the history of W&L volleyball.

The Generals set numerous school records, including longest win streak (21), highest hitting percentage (.280), most aces (438) and most blocks (325) in a season.

Individually, W&L was again led by senior setter Christine Gladysz (Palm Harbor, Fla.), who finished her career with 5,216 assists, a total which ranks among the all-time leaders in Division III. Gladysz was named the ODAC Player of the Year for the second straight season and was named Second Team All-American.

Senior middle blocker Susan Gaillard (Charleston, S.C.) and junior libero Lauren Edmonson (Crystal Lake, Ill.) joined Gladysz on the First Team All-ODAC squad.

Gaillard set a new W&L record for career hitting percentage (.402) and finished second all-time in kills (1,506) and blocks (412). She was named Honorable Mention All-American for the second time in her career. Edmonson set a new W&L records for digs in a match (33) and season (511), and also led the team with 80 service aces.

Freshman outside hitter Laura Maurer (Sparta, N.J.) earned Second Team All-ODAC honors and was named the ODAC Rookie of the Year.

Sixth-year mentor Bryan Snyder garnered ODAC Coach of the Year honors for the fifth straight season but will have his toughest challenge ahead as he must replace six seniors that have combined to go 127-25 overall during their four seasons.

Virginia Baird, Senior Captain

"This was another great season for us. These past 4 years have been an irreplacable experience. We have accomplished so much together and I know the next years to come will do just as well. Over the past 5 years W&L has really established itself as the team to beat in volleyball and its a welcomed challenge by our team."

Captain's Review:
In 2005, the Generals claimed their fifth straight ODAC Championship, advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the fifth straight year, and won more than 20 matches for eight consecutive years. Also this season W&L improved its ODAC winning streak to 64 straight matches dating back to the 200 season. This year's senior class is a special class consisting of Virginia Baird, Laura Byrne, Susan Gaillard, Taylor Gibson, Christine Gladysz, and Ashleigh Overly. All six came in as freshman and all six of them played for W&L for all four years.

Senior Christine Gladysz jumps sky-high for her set.

A team huddle before the Generals take the court.

Senior Susan Gaillard and junior Ashley Hurt play solid defense.

Men's Wrestling

The 2005-06 Washington and Lee wrestling team posted a 5-5 overall record and a 3-4 mark in the Centennial Conference, had a first place and third place finish at two invitationals, and had six wrestlers notch a winning record. The Generals placed first out of seven teams at the Washington and Lee Invitational, their first win at the W&L Invite since capturing three consecutive titles from 1984-86. W&L also placed third out of six teams at the Apprentice School Invitational for the second straight year.

W&L opened the 2005-06 season at the Southern Virginia Open where it won seven of the eight weight classes with all seven grapplers posting a 2-0 record. The Generals returned to the mat at the Ursinus Invitational where they had two second- place and two fourth-place finishes. W&L then finished seventh out of nine teams at the Scranton Invitational.

Following the winter break, the Generals opened their dual meet schedule by going 2-1 at the Washington and Lee Quadrangular. The Generals defeated Centennial-rival Gettysburg and Waynesburg, but lost to Wilkes. The following week when it hosted the Washington and Lee Invitational, the Generals won the invitational with 77 points to finish 26.50 points ahead of second-place Scranton. Fresh off their win at the W&L Invitational, the Generals recorded a 2-1 mark against three Centennial Conference opponents at the McDaniel Quadrangular. W&L now stood at 4-2 overall and 3-1 in the Centennial Conference. Christopher led the way by posting a 3-0 mark, while Lawrence and Sataloff both posted 2-1 records.

W&L then upped its record to 5-2 with a 39-6 victory over Southern Virginia. The Generals won eight of the 10 matches, including a pin by Courtney. W&L continued its strong run with the third place result at the Apprentice Invitational where it won two weight classes, along with a pair of second and third-place finishes.

The Generals ended the regular season with three consecutive losses to Centennial Conference opponents to finish 5-5 overall and 3-4 in the conference. They concluded their season with an eighth place result at the Centennial Conference Championships. Christopher placed third in the 285-pound weight class and Hosford took fourth at 125 pounds. Though the season ended with a disappointing finish at the Centennial Conference meet, the Generals three Centennial Conference victories were the most since the 2000-01 season. With the entire squad returning, including just one junior (Courtney), W&L will look to continue to build upon the successes of the 2005-06 season.

"This was a great year for Generals Wrestling. Although our team was young, we had another solid season. [We are 5-3 now, our conference tournament isn't for 2 weeks]. We have a very close knit group of guys, everyone on our squad comes to practice every day, works hard, and just loves to wrestle. I love the enthusiasm in the room and the passion for the sport. Coach Franke has been here for 33 years now and knows what it takes to turn us into champions. The program has come a long way in the past 3 years, and when all 10 of our starters return for next year, we will definitely be a contender in the Centennial Conference." Junior Captain, Max Courtney

"We had a great season and improved a lot, but look for even bigger things in the near future. We are a young team, so in the next few years we have the potential to dominate in the Centennial Conference," said Sataloff.

Greeks

Out of all the traditions at Washington and Lee, the Greek dominated social scene is perhaps one of the strongest. With one of the highest greek populations in the nation, W&L students who decided to 'Go Greek' were given the option to rush one of the five sororities, fourteen fraternities, or four historically black fraternities on campus. This year marked the first full year that four historically black fraternities had a presence on campus, providing yet another option for students who wanted to pursue the greek option during their time on campus. From informal recruitment to formal recruitment, and from pledgeship to initiation, many freshmen took part in experiences that would shape their first year of college and help build friendships that would last the remainder of their college careers.

Xi Lambda
Est. 1989

The sisters of the Xi Lambda chapter of Chi Omega are proud to have completed another successful year under the leaders of Presidents Hayley Skinner (2005) and Susan Rudolph (2006) along with the rest of our outstanding executive board! Th you, girls, for your supreme guidance and direction!

Chi Omegas can be seen in leadership positions all over campus. We are active in Nabors Service League, Habitat for Hum ity, Relay for Life, Make-a-Wish, residential life, General Admission, theater, W&L dance, the Executive Committee, cam publications, the Student Recruitment Committee, and many more! Chi Omegas remained busy as usual while excelling their many dedications to philanthropy, academics and athletics. In addition to community and campus involvement, we a blast at Preps & Punks, Harleys & Hunnies, Persephone's Gala, Zoolander, our New Member Formal, and White Carnat Thanks to our incredible Cardinal Cabinet for putting together such memorable events!

Xi Lambda started off 2006 with the addition of our best new member class yet, thanks to the hard work and dedicatio Recruitment Chairs Lyndsay Polloway and Tiffany Todd. We are so proud of our new Chi O's! With the addition of our new baby owls we are sad to say goodbye to the class of 2006. Thank you so much for everything that you have contributed over years in making Chi Omega such an amazing and genuine house! Congratulations and good luck! We'll miss you so much

Kappa Alpha Theta

Zeta Iota
Est. 1989

The Zeta Iota Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta had a great year once again! President Elizabeth Eisenbra t finished her term, handing the gavel down to new president, Kelly Price, to lead Theta in 2006. The Theta leaders p does not end here, however; the sorority boasts many team captains, heads of volunteer organizations, and stud nt activities boards. Thetas also serve as members of such wonderful programs as the Freshman Orientation comr ttee, Nabors Service League, Peer Counselors, Fancy Dress committee, and many more.

During the fall, Thetas kept busy with fun philanthropic events, co-sponsoring a 5k run with Sigma Chi d a pancake breakfast with Phi Psi. Both events raised funds to support their national philanthropy CASA (Cc rt Appointed Special Advocates), which works to give children of poor family situations a voice in court and a fri d during difficult times.

Thetas also enjoyed the night life this year at events like Tacky Prom, Twin Stars, the Super Heros mixer, d Red Neck Weekend. With the amazing freshmen class added at the beginning of winter term, more great times e sure to come. The pledges of 2006 add an exceptional amount of talent, intelligence, and fun to Kappa Alpha Th a. Theta is beyond grateful that the freshmen offer so much to the sorority as they will have to say goodbye to the fa lous class of '06. The seniors will be missed tremendously by both Theta and the Washington and Lee commun y. Kappa Alpha Theta wishes them the best of luck in the real world!

KEVIN REMIN

The sisters of the Zeta Tau chapter of Kappa Delta had an amazing year under the leadership of past president Brooke Taylor and current president Megan Walker. Under the guidance of Bebe Terrell we had an outstanding recruitment and we think our new pledge class is fabulous! Kapp Deltas could be seen all over campus this year: on Executive Committee, Fancy Dress Committe Nabors Service League, Panhellenic Committee, Dorm Counselor Staff, Peer Counselor Staff, RU University-Shenandoah Symphony Orchestra, University Chorus, Jubilee, General Admission, the knitting club, the sailing club, the Calyx staff, and W&L dance. KD's represent the Generals on many varsity athletic teams, including cross country, track, volleyball, soccer, tennis, lacrosse, riding, and swimming. KD's also participated in philanthropy events, like our Shamrock Project Dodgeball Tournament. There is no doubt that Kappa Delta had great social events, thanks to ou past social chairs, Alex Laymon and Brynne Archer, and our current social chairs, Blair Fletcher and Allie Kelly. We had a great time at our Fall Formal, Tacky Prom, Pretty in Pink, Famous Lovers, and in Charlottesville! And when we got back to sweet home Kappa Delta, Mama Sara i always there for us. This year as been great, and we can't wait to be back next fall. To all of our graduating seniors—Congratulations and Good Luck! This chapter never would have been the same without you. We love you and we will miss you!

Zeta Tau
Est. 1989

Members of the Zeta Tau chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma are involved in many aspects of lif at Washington and Lee. Athletic Kappas participate on the soccer, field hockey, sailing and man other sports teams, as well as the W&L dance program. We also have Tour Guides, writers for th Trident and Phi, members of the Fancy Dress Committee, and Mock Convention Chairs. Our volunteer ventures include Habitat for Humanity, Campus Kitchens Project, Race for Charlie, Projec Horizon, and many more.

As busy as this year has been, the leadership of past president Erin Coughlin '06 and curren president Camille Allen '07 kept us going. We'd all like to say congrats and welcome to our wonderful new pledge class! We're so excited to have you as sisters. Thanks to Boo, Sue, Bonnie and Mrs G for taking such special care of us. Seniors, good luck next year in the real world! We love you, an Kappa won't be the same without you!

Delta Sigma Theta

Tau Omega
Est. 2005

Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. is a sisterhood of black, college educated women committed to public serv e. Although Delta Sigma Theta is a historically black sorority, membership is open to all who are committed to he goals of the organization. The purpose of Delta is to provide assistance and support through established progra hs in local communities throughout the world. The major programs of the sorority are based upon the organizati 's Five Point Thrust of:

- Economic Development
- Educational Development
- International Awareness and Involvement
- Physical and Mental Health
- Political Awareness and Involvement

The Sorority was founded in 1913 by 22 students at Howard University. These young women wanted to use t ir collective strength to promote academic excellence; to provide scholarships; to provide support to the underserv d educate and stimulate participation in the establishment of positive public policy; and to highlight issues and p o-vide solutions for problems in their communities.

Chi Psi

Alpha Omicron Delta
Est. 1977

This past year, in an amazing tour de force, the Lodge once again managed to prove ourselves wrong and beat e spread. Led by the skills of TNK and the Foreign Legion, the Lodge (and the Burger Prince in particular) kept its e on the prize and claimed second place in IM soccer—Viva La Mexico. Topping off a stellar start to rush in which any valuable emails were written, the Prez was promoted to King at homecoming as we once again Juan the Queen mination—winning for the 5th time in 6 years and proving that Jess is always a Good choice. But more impor- ntly our banner fried the competition and firmly established the Lodge as the local arts and crafts fraternity.

Though marked by notable events such as Margaritaville (Kappa what?) and Christmas Weekend, the rest of e fall sped by in a haze which most of us don't remember—though we managed to come out of it with several fast od chains and Spellcheck busted Kaps. The term came to a close on a thankful note, and we were all pleased that ick Top managed to show us the true meaning of sketchiness all the way from Amsterdam. Winter term began th another reminder that the empty spot in the Big 4 eludes us, but thankfully it wasn't too long before we got our , 15, 10, 7 great guys.

The rest of the year went on as it always has, though Rollertard did travel several times in search of Crazyeyes. CL learned once again that money can't buy you love—and neither can endless booze for that matter—and Lurch scovered someone with a great taste in movies. The Little Mermaid loved more than ever before, the Fire Marshall rvived several knockout attempts by Ivan Drago, and Handicapped Parking settled down, until Pip proved to a home wrecker. The owls sadly flew the coop (3 times…), but this was more than made up for by our sudden endship with Phi Delt and SAE—if only for a few late hours at a time. FD and Alumni Weekend were no doubt ceptional—though we didn't attend the former and don't remember the latter.

We've finally made it. The end of our college careers. But instead of an ending, we find another beginning. The beginning of a new job, new school, new town, or even a family. Wherever our paths may take us, though, we will always remember and be grateful for those who have loved and supported us through it all. For those who kept believing in us when we didn't think we would make it. For those who will always be there with a helping hand, a word of comfort, and a shoulder to cry on. To all of our friends and family, thank you from the Class of 2006.

To become what we dream requires timely inspiration, education, dedication and exhortation. Through faith and determination Christina, you have become your dream. Keep dreaming and being a trail-blazer for all of your siblings. This is as natural for you as the rhythm of a healthy heart beat. Congratulations on a job well done. - Love, Mom and Dad & Grand Parents

I admire the fact that Chris is outgoing and has always been able to speak her mind; there's never a dull moment, and always a funny story to be told. - Katrina

Congratulations Christina; You made it through all of 4 years of undergrad studies and you've realized adulthood. We also want to thank you for all the things you went through in being there for us. Taking us to the Library, Burger King, B & J'S, to Grandma's house, thinking of us while traveling and bringing us souvenirs. - Dominique, Benjamin & Daniel

Congratulations Christina! You did the impossible, you finished undergrad. Now, being your most intelligent sister I realize how much of an inspiration I was to you. Therefore when you become successful-you know, make your first million-I only ask to receive 30%. I'm very proud of you Chris, keep it up. Love you. - Tracey

Christina, you know it only seems like it was only yesterday when you were in grade school with us - Yeah those were the times. Anyway congratulations on being the first of the eight to graduate from college and achieving such a high accomplishment. - Jonathan

Christina, I want to congratulate you on one of your biggest accomplishments. - Jerry, Jr.

Christina, we are all so very proud of who you are and what you've accomplished. The village (church family) always knew it was in you to excel from those many days of choir rehearsal, Sunday school, ushering, and making critical analysis of your pastor's (Rev. J. Cork) sermons. This only proves that you listened to a lot of what everyone said and then made up your mind to search and discover the unique person God created in you. Before we all get emotional and stuff, we all took out some time to shout, dance and rejoice so we won't embarrass you at the graduation ceremony doing what comes natural - you do feel us on this one don't you - yes, yes, praise him and hallelujah - Warning we feel a Praise alert erupting. - Open Vision COGIC

"The purpose of life is to listen - to yourself, to your neighbor, to your world and to God and, when the time comes, to respond in as helpful a way as you can find... from within and without." - Mr. Fred Rogers

Congratulations Ryan! We're so proud of you!

Love,

Mom and Dad

Kristine Holda

Dear Kristine,

May the good Lord be with you
Down every road you roam
And may sunshine and happiness
Surround you when you're far from home
And may you grow to be proud
Dignified and true
And do unto others
As you'd have done to you
Be courageous and be brave
And in our hearts you'll always stay
Forever Young
(Rod Stewart)

Congratulations!
With love from Mom, Dad, and Ingrid

Shane D. Newhouser

Shane,

Words cannot describe how proud we are of your academic, athletic, and musical accomplishments over the past 22 years; but we are most proud of the fact that you have become a kind and caring man. Your leadership skills and empathetic nature will be an asset to any profession and community you choose to become a part of.

We Love You,
Dad & Mom

Earth's the right place for love:
I don't know where it's likely to go better.
I'd like to go by climbing a birch tree,
And climb black branches up a snow-white trunk
Toward heaven, till the tree could bear no more,
But dipped its top and set me down again.
That would be good both going and coming back.,
One could do worse than be a swinger of birches.
-From "Birches" by Robert Frost

Congratulations Emilee!

Mary Christopher

The best gift of all
can't be wrapped up in a box
it won't be found under a tree
The best gift of all
can't be bought, can't be sold,
it's better than gold and its free.
The gift is hardly mentioned but treasured each day
all year through,
The best gift of all
on all days and always,
is having a daughter like you.
May today be the perfect start,
Mary, of a wonderful lifetime for you.
Congratulations! We love you!
Love always,
Mom and Dad

Rob Armstrong

Rob:
You are not a random product of a natural world. You are a miraculous gift from God, first to us and now to countless others who will meet you on your life's journey. Accept your gift and share it. Everything else will be just fine.
Love always,
Mom and Dad

Juan Estrada

Dear Juan,
Your entire family congratulates you on this very special day. We are all very proud of you and we thank you for the great happiness that you have brought and will continue to bring to those close to you. Have a very successful professional career, be happy and a BIG KISS from Dad, Mom, Annie, Carol,
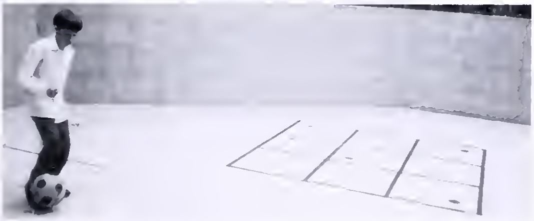
Estefi and Javi



Elise Gelinas

Dear Elise,

Well once again, another milestone has passed and its time to load the U Haul and head into the great unknown. From the little girl that hid behind her mother at every nursery school social function, to the Queen of Tacky Prom! For all the wonderful friends you have made (some were furrier than others) ... to the challenges you have faced and conquered ... to your success on the hockey field and on other strategic playing fields ... we are so proud of you! I know success will continue to follow you wherever life leads and you should know that our hearts are always with you.

Love, Mom, Ron and Aimee

Melissa Draggett

Dear Melissa,
We are so proud of your accomplishments at W&L. Congratulations, we know that great adventures and continued successes await you. Keep reaching for the stars! All our love and best wishes for a lifetime of happiness,
Mom and Dad

Kerry Giblin

Dear Kerry,

What a wonderful, beautiful young lady you have blossomed into. W&L has taught you to work hard, while having fun. You have the world in the palm of your hand. Sieze your opportunities and make the most of them. Congratulations! We love you very much.

Mom, Dad and Chris

Congratulations Class of 2006!

Rachel Wallick

Dear Rachel,

Congratulations on all your achievements. We love, admire and respect you and all that you have accomplished. Your winning smile, determination and spirit of generosity will carry on your continued journey.

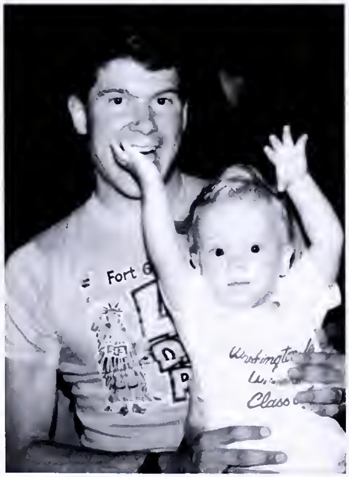
Matthew Hampton



Matthew,

Congratulations on these great four years. You've worked hard, been quite involved on campus, and have enjoyed a wonderful W&L experience. I want you to know again how honored I am that we share the same Alma Mater. Washington and Lee is an institution that changes for the better over time, yet never strays from its true roots. We will share those traditions forever.

Your mother and I are so proud of you and wish you the very best in the years ahead.

to the Class of 2006!

In the shadows of white columns,
We stop to hear the chimes.
Worn steps on which we linger
Slowly yield to time.
But when we doubt our future's course,
Our honor sets us free.
A timeless trust in our Alma Mater,
Washington and Lee.
As the bells ring out the hour and echo through the halls, we sense in this brief moment
the strength within these walls.
But when we doubt our future's course,
Our honor sets us free.
A timeless trust in our Alma Mater,
Washington and Lee.
Washington and Lee University Hymn

Colophon

The 2006 Calyx, volume 109, was produced by the student members of the Calyx Staff at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Virginia. Created using Adobe InDesign CS on a Dell Optiplex PC, it was printed by Jostens Publishing at their Winston-Salem, North Carolina, plant. A total of 320 pages, 54 of which are full process color, the book contains approximately 3000 photos, both print and digital. Seventeen hundred copies of the book were produced. Executive Editor Swan designed the theme "Capture the Moment" during the fall of 2005, and the cover during the winter of 2006. The cover is high gloss litho with process color application. The endsheets are Snow White. Body and caption font is Palatino. Portrait photos were taken by Vantine Images. Layouts were submitted to the Winston-Salem plant by CD.

Thank Yous

The 320 page book you hold in your hands is the result of months of planning, hard work, and dedication. Executive Editor Catherine Swan would like to thank the Calyx Staff for all of their work and contributions throughout this year. A special thanks to Campus Life section editor Lindsay Lecky for going above and beyond what was required of her. The Calyx Staff would also like to thank the following people for their contributions to this year's book:

All the students who took time to submit their photos to us.

Jay Hollis, Jana Poplar, and all the folks at Jostens for consistently being helpful and a pleasure to work with.

Brian Laubscher in Sports Information for providing us with wonderful photos and write-ups for the sports section.

Kevin Remington for generously providing us with photographs for the book.

Martha Rowsey in the business office for keeping our account straight.

Richard Swan for his extra help.

Kelly Jo Larsen for always being available to answer questions.

April Washburn for help with administrative details.

Susan Wager for her help in providing materials for the Performing Arts section.

Morgan Harris for providing us with photographs. If you are interested in purchasing any photographs of his you see in the book, you can contact him at mghphotos@gmail.com, or visit his website at http://home.wlu.edu/~harrigmg.

Stephanie Cyr for being a source of advice and encouragement.

Rachel Hull and Jack Jeong for the extra help.
